U. S. DEFENSE COSTS SURE TO GO HIGHER

All 'Free Men' Face Danger

Mistake Of Underestimating Hitler Won't Be Made Again, Nation Told

SECOND CHINS-UP SPEECH

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Eisenhower told the nation Wednesday night defense spending for space age weapons must be hiked a "very considerable" amount. He hit out at any sacrificing of security to worship a balanced budget

The Russian threat in missile development and related fields means "there is danger ahead for free men everywhere," the President said in a nationwide television-radio address.

Eisenhower told an applauding overflow audience in the 6,000 seat Municipal Auditorium that the American people "rightly demand" that defense spending increase by whatever amount is necessary to safeguard security.

No Tax Cut Next Year

His stand dealt still another blow to any remaining chance for a tax cut next year.

He also expected it would be necessary to make sharp cuts in some non-military spending programs in next year's budget to help offset some defense boosts. Some such programs may have to be eliminated altogether, the President said.

The President, in a talk climaxing Oklahoma's 50th anniversary "Arrows to Atoms" celebration of statehood, did not make any specific estimate of how much expenditures for defense will have to be hiked in the fiscal year starting July 1. Spending in that category for the current year will exceed 38 billion dollars.

Second Speech

In the second of a series of speeches designed to bolster America's confidence in free world defense capabilities, Eisenhower also called for a stepped-up program of training American youths as scientists. He cited Russian progress in that field.

And he said there must be more basic research in this country, adding that "a warning lies in the fast rate of increase of the Soviet effort" in research.

The crowd gave the President a tremendous ovation when he entered the auditorium. The people had whipped themselves into a whooping frame of mind by singing Oklahoma Fight songs and cheers just before he appeared.

Hitler Days Recalled

Eisenhower recalled the days of Hitler and declared not enough people took the nazi dictator at his word.

"We shall not make that mistake again," the President said.

Discussing the satellite program specifically against the background of Russia already having put two into space, Eisenhower said the United States "must adopt a clear formula to guide us in deciding what satellite and outer space activity to undertake."

He said there must be two tests, first, if the project is designed for scientific purposes, the size and cost must be tailored to the scientific job to be done.

Secondly, he added, if it is some ultimate defense project, its urgency for this purpose must be judged in comparison to the probable value of competing defense projects.

Research Stressed

Eisenhower stressed need for "strengthening our scientific education and our basic research," but he did not spell out the role of the federal government. Nor did he set forth any specific recommendations.

As for the education programs to train more scientists, the President said:

"The federal government can deal with only part of this difficulty, but it must do its part. The task is a co-operative one. Federal, state and local governments, and our entire citizenry must all do their share.

"We should, among other things, have a system of nationwide testing of high school students; a system of incentives for high aptitude students to pursue scientific or professional studies; a program to stimulate good quality teaching of mathematics and science; provision of more laboratory facilities; and measures, including fellowships, to increase the output of qualified teachers."

Stern Demands

He called on all school boards and even parent-teacher associations to make one single project their special order of business during this week—National Education Week:

"To scrutinize your school's curriculum and standards to see whether they meet the stern demands of the era we are entering.

"As you do, remember when a Russian graduates from high school, he has had five years of physics, four years of chemistry, one year of astronomy, five years of biology, 10 years of mathematics through trigonometry and five years of a foreign language."

Referring to that program in Soviet Union schools, Eisenhower added:

"This trend is disturbing. Indeed, according to my scientific advisers, this is for the American people the most critical problem of all."

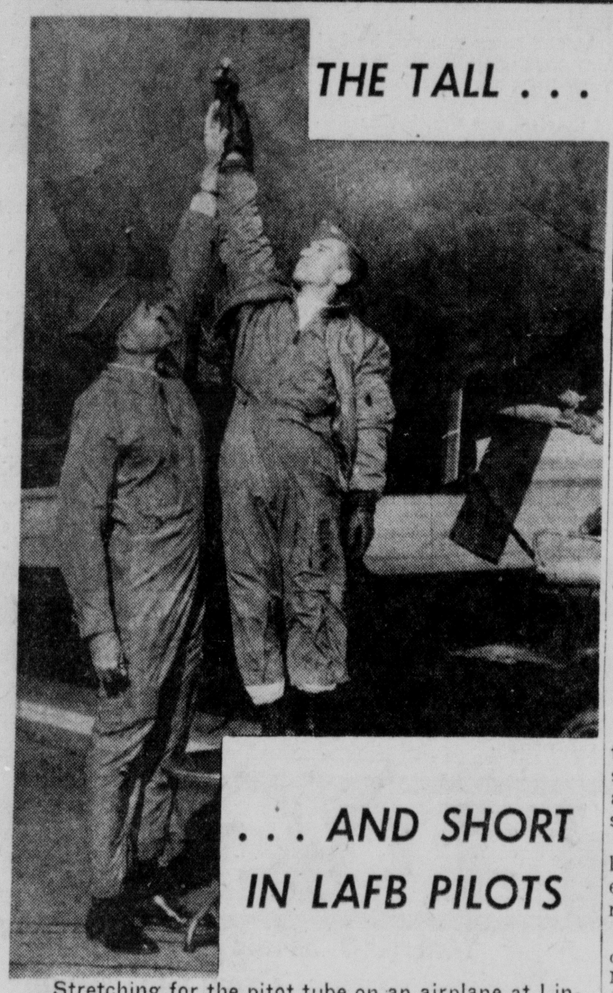
Looking Years Ahead

"We intend to carry forward our programs in a way that will do credit to our scientific tradition and insure our security over the years ahead," the President said. "This will involve substantial cost.

"Now, all these new costs which in the aggregate will reach a very considerable figure, must be added to our current annual expenditures for security. There is no immediate prospect for any marked reduction in those recurring costs."

"For that reason," Eisenhower said, "the first thing is to search for other places to cut expenditures."

THE TALL . . .



. . . AND SHORT IN LAFB PILOTS

Stretching for the pitot tube on an airplane at Lincoln Air Force Base are two men that the 98th Air Refueling Squadron claims are the tallest and shortest pilots in the Eighth Air Force. Capt. Gordon Wilkinson (at left), who is 6 feet 6 inches tall, has been a rated pilot for 14 years and says he has met only one pilot taller than he. Maj. Joseph M. Aitken (at right) is 5 feet 4 inches tall. A rated pilot 15½ years, he claims to have met only one pilot shorter than he, "and that pilot is out of the service now."

Proposal Would Update City Comprehensive Plan

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A proposal to streamline and update Lincoln's 1950 comprehensive plan was outlined Wednesday to the City Council and City Planning Commission.

Eldridge Lovelace of Harland Bartholomew and Associates said the basic plan for the city "has held up very well, but various phases have become antiquated and not entirely useful."

The proposed revision project, which would not assume the encyclopedic proportions of the original plan, would cost about $25,000 and take up to 18 months, according to Lovelace.

He said the city may be eligible for federal funds up to half the cost and the city's share could be spread over a two year period.

Proposal Favored

Council members generally favored the proposal to bring the comprehensive plan up to date and directed Lovelace to help City Planning Engineer Doug Brogden to investigate possible federal aid.

The various parts of the comprehensive plan needed to be restudied and revised as outlined by Lovelace are:

1. The economic background of the city, especially regarding the Lincoln Air Force Base, University of Nebraska, and the Atomic Power Plant at Hallam.
2. Population growth and distribution. "Lincoln's growth has been faster than predicted, but has gone where predicted," Lovelace said.
3. Land use information would be rechecked and brought up to date.
4. The housing section would be re-studied in connection with a "concrete urban renewal program."
5. Major street improvements would be resurveyed in line with current traffic surveys. The traffic survey would be co-ordinated with George Barton and Associates, traffic consultants. A step-by-step program for Lincoln street needs in the future would be outlined.
6. A comprehensive plan for the downtown business district would be compiled into one section. Presently the general downtown plan is scattered through various sections of the comprehensive plan.
7. Parks and schools. Some plan revisions needed.
8. The city's public works program would be brought up to date.

Earlier, the Council met with the Planning Commission concerning Bob Ring's application for industrial zoning at 21st and Q in connection with his used car sales lot.

The Commission said it favored a "hold the line" policy on the 20th to 23rd and O to Q area until a re-study could be made for the best land use.

The Council had deferred action on Ring's application until next Monday for an informal meeting with the Planning Commission.

Teamwork Asked

ANKARA (AP)— Italy and Turkey called for increased economic teamwork by the Western allies to stave off the Soviet threat in the Middle East.

Ending three days visit by Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Foreign Minister Guiseppe Pella to Turkey's capital, the two nations signed a joing communique also reaffirming their faith in the Atlantic alliance.

Bogus Check Artist Gets 1-14 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 1-to-14 year prison term was imposed Friday on Charles R. Speedie for passing fictitious checks.

Speedie, 51, claims he has cashed $300,000 in bogus checks in 15 years but he was convicted on only five counts.

Speedie

Superior Judge Lewis Brucker told him: "You probably will serve most of this sentence. Any time you seek parole you will find eight other states want to extradite and prosecute you."

Speedie was arrested Sept. 5 at Middleburg, O. Police found in his San Fernando, Calif., home more than $50,000 worth of merchandise he said he had purchased while cultivating the friendship of store clerks before giving them bogus checks.

Cardinal Rule

"Never pass checks within 15 miles of where you reside, and move periodically from town to town," was Speedie's No. 1 rule in his nefarious trade. He said he violated this cardinal rule and it tripped him up.

Speedie claims to have attended the University of Nebraska, and Lincoln High School graduates claim they remember Speedie as a fellow who was very active in extra-curricular activities and a good scholar.

Lincoln police believe that Speedie passed eight forged payroll checks for $68.02 in 1956 in the city.

According to the Lincoln City Directory, a Charles Speedie was listed as a resident from 1924 through 1941.

EAST TO BE CLOUDY; RAIN FOR WEST

Brief showers were predicted for the western part of Nebraska Thursday. The eastern portion of the state was to be partly cloudy, indicating better visibility than Wednesday's fog.

Fog was reported Wednesday at Lincoln, Grand Island, Omaha, Beatrice, Kearney, Norfolk and McCook. Omaha and Beatrice also reported light drizzle. Lincoln had .04 of an inch of precipitation Tuesday and early Wednesday.

Thursday's highs were to be in the 50s, compared with Wednesday's readings that ranged from 58 at North Platte to 44 at Omaha. Lincoln had a 46-degree high.

City Science 'Quite Good'

By HARRIET ASHLEY
Star Staff Writer

The science and mathematics programs in the Lincoln Public Schools are "quite good," according to School Supt. Steven Watkins and Dr. R. L. Fredstrom, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum and instructional improvement.

Of the 1957 graduates from high school, 97 per cent had at least one year of science, 33 per cent had two years and 10 per cent had three years, Dr. Fredstrom said.

Every seventh and eighth grade pupil must take one semester of science. Last year half of the ninth grade and senior high students were enrolled in science courses.

Exceptional high school students can enroll in advanced mathematics courses and receive college credit, Dr. Fredstrom said, to further stimulate their mathematical interests.

"The matter of keeping science teachers has been a serious problem all over the nation," Dr. Fredstrom said.

Dr. Watkins said that in 1956 there were only three college graduate teachers in Nebraska with physics majors and all left the state to teach elsewhere.

In the larger cities of the state, Dr. Fredstrom explained, math and science are holding up, but in smaller towns it is moving toward more general science, rather than physics and chemistry, because of the lack of qualified teachers.

Labs Very Adequate

The science laboratory facilities are considered very adequate by both Dr. Fredstrom and Dr. Watkins. Lincoln High School has recently had $30,000 in laboratory remodeling.

Programs in the Lincoln Public Schools to interest students in science and math are also well-planned.

"We try to motivate the children into the areas they are interested in and are continuously on the lookout to encourage outstanding students," Dr. Fredstrom said.

All the students take aptitude tests, the superintendent said, and advisors urge the outstanding students to participate in National Merit Scholarship and College Board examinations.

Special Program

The University of Nebraska has had a program for the past two years under the leadership of James Rutledge to further science teaching work — Science Teaching Improvement Program.

Also at the University of Nebraska, a new series of summer courses for science and math teachers is planned.

According to Edward Washburn, chairman of the chemistry department, a second year "refresher" course in general chemistry will be offered this summer primarily for high school teachers.

Similar courses will be carried out in physics and mathematics. The National Science Foundation is helping sponsor this work and fellowships will be available to teachers for the summer session.

Grandmother, Girl, 5, Found

. . Claims Child Not Taken At Gunpoint Here

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Bertha Huddleston Wednesday night denied that her 5-year-old granddaughter was taken from a children's home in Lincoln, Neb., at gunpoint Tuesday.

Little Marilyn Sue Henry was with Mrs. Huddleston in her home here Wednesday night.

Charges of child stealing were filed Wednesday at Lincoln against Mrs. Huddleston, the child's paternal grandmother, and James Bradley Henry, the father.

Chief Deputy County Atty. Dale Fahrnbruch, who lodged the charges at Lincoln, said Henry was identified from a picture as the man who pulled the gun on employes of the children's home.

Marilyn

On conviction, the charge of child stealing carries a penalty of one to 20 years imprisonment.

Authorities throughout the Midwest and Southwest had been alerted to pick up Mrs. Huddleston, Henry and the child. The child had been placed in Cedars Home for Children pending outcome of litigation dating back to 1954. The mother, Mrs. Herbert Martin of Lincoln, and the grandmother sought custody.

Lived In Lincoln

Mrs. Martin and the man she married after being divorced from the 35-year-old Henry had lived in Lincoln about three months.

Mrs. Huddleston told newsmen that Lincoln authorities were mistaken in their identification and that her son had remained in North Little Rock while she went to Lincoln alone.

She said she was not aware of the charges filed against her at Lincoln.

Mrs. Huddleston said a Lincoln man accompanied her to the children's home. She said she met the man in the Courthouse at Lincoln and he told her the best way to get custody of the child was to go to the home and take her.

Mrs. Huddleston said the report that the girl was taken at gunpoint apparently was a device to keep children's home employes from losing their jobs. She said she pushed away one woman employe when the woman tried to keep her from removing the child.

Alberta Kuklish, superintendent of the home, had said Mrs. Huddleston led Marilyn Sue to an automobile while a man held a revolver on employes.

Asked about the charge against her in Nebraska, Mrs. Huddleston laughed and said:

"You think Orval Faubus will let them take me back up there?"

She referred to extradition proceedings which would be required to return her to Nebraska. Gov. Orval Faubus would have to approve.

Mrs. Huddleston was granted custody of the child about a year ago by a Little Rock chancery judge and extradition proceedings had been filed against Mrs. Martin in an Arkansas court.

'DID USE GUN'

Contacted early Thursday morning, Cedars Home Superintendent Alberta Kuklish confirmed her earlier statement about the gun.

"Yes, they did use a gun," she remarked.

County attorney Elmer Scheele said that he will take steps to extradite Mrs. Huddleston.

Carpenter Quits Government Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — I. W. Carpenter Jr. resigned Wednesday as assistant secretary of state for administration.

Carpenter, a former paper company executive from Omaha, told President Eisenhower "the pressure of business and personal affairs" caused him to leave government service. His resignation will be effective around Dec. 1. He has held the State Department post since early 1954.

LeMay Sets New Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Curtis LeMay and a record-setting strategic airpower team Wednesday rocketed a giant jet tanker plane from Buenos Aires to Washington in 11 hours, 5 minutes and eight-tenths of a second.

The time for the 5,204 miles was sensational, and it set a record for later crews to shoot at. This was the first nonstop jet flight between the Argentine and United States capitals.

LeMay and his men flew the Boeing KC135 tanker tronsport from South America's down-under across the broad tropic zone and far up the U.S. coast—from Latin America's springtime to North America's late autumn—at an average speed of 469.5 miles on hour.

At Washington National Airport they received a hero's welcome. Pilot LeMay received the Distinguished Flying Cross from his boss, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff. LeMay is vice chief of staff.

The members of the KC135 crew also were decorated for their striking demonstration that operational U.S. jet aircraft have swift, global mobility that is unmatched—and that still is a deterrent throughout the world to Communist aggression.

They also showed convincingly that the KC135 could make an excellent aerial operations headquarters in the event of an emergency. It has all the communications facilities such a headquarters would need.

This same tanker-transport crew left Westover Air Force Base, Mass., last Monday afternoon and deliberately flew a long course, to the outward bulge of Brazil and then down to Buenos Aires, to demonstrate the tremendous range of the KC135.

In doing so they set a distance record for non-refueled jet aircraft of 6,325 miles, flown in 13 hours two minutes 51 seconds.

Wednesday's goal was not a distance mark but the establishment of a speed record between the two capitals which would not be easily demolished.

Secretary of the Air Force Douglas said of Wednesday's flight: "It is history today. It will be routine in a few years."

Gen. White described it as "just one indication of the global capabilities of the United States Air Force."

Both Tuesday's and Wednesday's records were official, because they were judged under the careful timing of the National Aeronautic Assn.

Today's Chuckle

The father gave his son a long talk on the birds and the bees. Then finally asked the little fellow if he had any questions.

The son, who had kept very quiet, thought a moment, then spoke up. "Yes, Dad" he said, "do you think the Braves can beat the Yankees again next year?"

ONE RECORD THEY'RE SURE WELCOME TO

OMAHA (AP) — Anyone want to brag about poison ivy?

Challengers are invited to compare local specimens with a whopper found in Fontenelle forest, a nature preserve south of Omaha.

The monstrous vine covers a 50-foot tall elm tree and has a trunk more than 5½ inches in diameter. Consulting forester Frank Pipal of Omaha thinks it may be the largest poison ivy vine in the world.

In the Missouri river bottom land of the forest there is an almost inaccessible "jungle" of four to six square miles where few other plants but poison ivy and trees can be seen, Pipal reports.

Cuban Rebels Firing Cane Fields

Big Losses Caused By Batista Foes

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro's rebels with torches in their fists were reported Wednesday launching a widespread campaign of burning sugar cane fields in an effort to topple President Fulgencio Batista.

The scorched crops policy apparently was part of an economic offensive that also includes arson in the tobacco fields, appeals for a walkout of rice plantation workers and calls for a "general revolutionary strike" about Dec. 15.

Batista

Reports to sugar mill sources from Oriente, the eastern province where Castro and about 600 rebels are holding out in the mountains, said the torch has been put to 6,000 acres, destroying 125,000 tons of sugar worth nearly two million dollars.

Rebels Killed

Troops at Yara, near Manzanillo, killed three rebels and wounded two who were trying to burn a cane field. A foreman attempting to fight a fire also was killed.

In the past 24 hours fires were started around Niquero, Pilon, Campechuela and Calcito, all in the area of Castro's Sierra Maestra hideouts.

In Pinar Del Rio, the western province, more than 50 tobacco warehouses have been burned in the past month.

Appeals To Burn

Widely distributed bulletins, which appear to have been printed in Miami, Fla., appeal to Cubans to burn sugar and tobacco crops.

"We will not have a harvest with Batista, but there will be a harvest of liberty," the bulletins declare.

They carry illustrated instructions on how to make Molotov cocktails (gasoline bombs) to set fire to fields and how phosphorus pellets may be attached to the tails of rats or aimed by slingshots into fields and warehouses.

The bulletins have been directed especially to the 400,000 workers in cane fields, and the 50,000 Cubans employed in the tobacco harvest.

Sideswipe Crash Injures Trucker

An Omaha driver, 53-year-old Nickolas Cifuno, suffered minor injuries in a sideswipe accident on U.S. 6 about 17 miles west of Lincoln Wednesday.

Heavy fog was blamed for the mishap by Trooper Thomas Arow, who investigated.

Driver of the other car involved was James C. Patrich, 19, of Fremont, who was westbound. Cifuno, who was headed east, was treated at Seward for facial cuts. The two drivers were traveling alone.

$124,000 Damages Asked In Crash

OMAHA (AP)—An Emerson, Neb., man and his two teen-aged children filed suit in District Court here asking $124,000 in damages from Robert G. Bernet.

The separate lawsuits, filed by Levi Groves, his daughter, Shirley, 19, and his son, James, 16, allege that Shirley and James suffered injuries when their car was struck by Bernet's car near Dakota City, Neb., May 18.

Marine Gets 14-Day Term In Beating

YOKOSUKA, Japan (Thursday) (INS)—Marine Cpl. Glenn W. Fredericks, 21, of Anchorage, Alaska, was sentenced to 14 days at hard labor Thursday for striking a sailor in the brig at U.S. Sasebo Navy Base.

Fredericks was the first of 16 former Marine brig warders to be court martialled on charges of brutality brought by former sailor and Marine brig inmates.

Fredericks was also reduced in rank from corporal to private.

The guilty verdict and sentence were handed down by Navy Commander Joseph A. Eddins, of Rosedale, Miss., sole presiding officer at the summary court martial.

Two other Marines, Cpl. Dayton Dierkson, of Miller, S. D., and Sgt. Bobby Phillips, of Tyler, Tex., are scheduled to be tried in on the same charges summary courts martial.

The courts martial were ordered for the 16 former brig warders on extensive charges of torture and brutality.

Man Hurt When Auto Strikes Tree

James Kadavy, 32, of 353 So. 26th was admitted to a Lincoln hospital with cuts and bruises suffered when the car he was driving hit a tree two blocks north of the junction of highways 79 and 34.

The accident occurred soon after midnight Wednesday morning. No one else was injured.

Balance Same

PARIS (AP)—The two Russian satellites whirling around the earth have not greatly changed the balance between East and West, NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak said.

"In the West," he told a meeting of the French Association for the Atlantic Community, "we can't choose between the Sputnik and washing machines. We have an obligation to make both."

Big And Costly

HAVANA (AP)—Mayor Justo Luis Pozo announced Havana's new municipal palace will cost $8,402,000. The 23-story building is intended to house all the city administrative departments by early 1959.

2 Caught After Stealing Spree Over 10 States

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—Two fugitives from a Montana jail, arrested Wednesday by a Superior policeman, told officers of a 10-state burglary spree that followed their escape.

Anthony P. LaMoose, 34, Dixon, Mont., and Bert S. Triplett, 23, Corvallis, Mont., were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner James D. Lavelle on federal charges of interstate transportation of a stolen car.

Both were jailed in lieu of $1,500 bail each.

Assistant Police Chief Charles Barnard said the two men told him they spent 10 days digging through a three-foot-thick wall of the Ravalli County jail at Hamilton, Mont., before their escape on Oct. 25.

They told Barnard they committed several burglaries in Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Wisconsin before driving the stolen car to Superior. They said they couldn't remember the names of the towns in which the thefts took place.

Stevenson Is Invited To Capital

WASHINTON (AP)—The State Department announced Wednesday Adlai Stevenson will consult with Secretary Dulles here next Monday on the United States program to revitalize the Atlantic alliance.

Stevenson Tuesday agreed to act as Democratic consultant on the program. He declined, however, to undertake a drafting role which might make him share responsibility for the project.

State Department press officer Joseph Reap read this announcement Wednesday:

"Pursuant to his discussions with Mr. Adlai Stevenson, the Secretary of State has invited Mr. Stevenson to consult with him and some of his associates about U.S. preparations for the forthcoming NATO meeting of heads of government.

"Mr. Stevenson will visit the department on Nov. 18 for this purpose."

Reap said it was a "fair guess" that working papers on the U.S. program would be ready for examination by Stevenson on Monday.

Reap said he did not know yet what time the Stevenson-Dulles meeting would take place. Nor did he know whether Stevenson would stay several days in Washington.

'MAGIC' OF JUDO LETS TOTS TOSS GROWNUPS

By NANCY BENJAMIN
Star Staff Writer

Simple enough for a child to master, yet judo has saved lives of U.S. airmen during combat and flight missions.

M. Sgt. Harry T. Jones, head of judo training at the Lincoln Air Force Base, can prove both points.

Young Scotty Kullowatz, 5, son of Chaplain and Mrs. Vernon Kullowatz, can toss grown adults around using the simpler throwing techniques. Sgt. Jones says he's an outstanding member of the 50 air force children taking Saturday courses at the base.

After a freak accident that caused his jet plane's ejection seat to hurl him on to the concrete runway, Capt. Robert W. Haston attributed his survival to base judo training.

Only Survivor

Haston is believed to be the only man to have been subjected to an aircraft seat ejection on the ground and lived to tell about it.

Sgt. Jones handles both the fun and the serious sides of judo training and physical conditioning at the base.

Every combat crewman at the base receives courses in judo, which not only keep the trainee in top physical condition, but teach him to meet emergency situations with split-second mental and physical reaction.

The crews also learn a combat type of judo, which they hope they never have to use, but which could result in the winning advantage in hand-to-hand combat.

Young Scotty's training is not quite as intensive or as serious as that given the officers and men, but the rudiments of judo are important to him also.

Judo, a modification of the more vicious jujitsu of ancient Japanese origin, has a simple function: how to give the little guy an advantage over the big guy in hand to hand combat.

The explanation of the advantage gained by judo training seems to stem mainly from the importance of body balance. By using the force of the opponent's thrust against him, the judo trainee is in effect adding to his own power.

Four adults and four children demonstrate this skill of judo training for Lincoln area audiences in a show that is gaining in popularity daily.

Scotty learned his judo in a few months, but even the adults in the exhibition team admit it was phenomenal.

V.P. Nixon Says U.S., Allies Can Defeat Any Enemy In Any Field

Adequate Aid Plan Is Vital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon said Wednesday night the United States and its allies have the military strength "to meet and defeat any enemy on any field in the world."

Addressing 1,200 members of the National Defense Executive Reserve, Nixon said the major peril posed by Russia is not "overt aggression" but the Soviet's campaign to win the "uncommitted one-third of the world" by cold war tactics.

He told the businessmen—all former government officials who are committed to re-enter the government in the event of mobilization—that an adequate foreign aid program is the vital counter-weapon.

"The dollars we are spending on mutual economic assistance are just as important as the money we are spending on missiles and other weapons," Nixon said.

'Progress'

Earlier, Gen. Maxwell Taylor told the group the Army is making "encouraging progress" in the development of a weapon capable of knocking down Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks told the businessmen that in federal budget making "the emphasis now is on less butter and more guns."

Nixon said that without U.S. mutual aid communism stands a good chance of winning world domination by its employment of political, economic, psychological and subversive tactics.

The Russian Sputniks have no military signifiance in themselves, Nixon said. They do provide the Communists, however, with a tremendous talking-point, he added:

"We must recognize that Communist leaders in the uncommitted countries will emphasize that Russia's ability to launch a satellite proves the superior ability of the Communist system to build economic and scientific might," the vice president said.

Quickly

"All the uncommitted countries want economic progress and want it quickly. As they look at the free world and then at the Communist world, they are trying to decide which way to turn to gain the progress they desire.

"We must show them that we offer more than the Communists offer—and we do," Nixon said.

"We tell these uncommited countries: You can have economic progress with freedom. The Communists say to them: You can have economic progress but you must take slavery with it.

"There is no question but that we can win."

Nixon assured the business executives he has "no fear whatever but that the United States will meet its responsibilities in being prepared militarily." He said:

"There has never been a time in the history of this country once we knew we had a job to do and put our talents to the solution of the problem that we were not able to solve it ...

"All I can tell you tonight is, in the military field, don't sell the United States short."

EVELYN REED . . . Sits upon her "throne"

Evelyn Reed Waverly FFA Sweetheart

Lincoln Star Special

WAVERLY — Evelyn Reed, a pretty senior at Waverly High School, was presented to more than 100 fathers, sons and guests Wednesday night as the Chapter Sweetheart at the 28th annual Future Farmers of America Father-Son Banquet.

Chosen by popular vote of FFA members, Miss Reed was presented by Chapter President Jim Greer. She was flanked on her throne by two attendants, Carol Greer and Judy George.

In addition to installing a new chapter sweetheart, the FFA boys initiated three businessmen as Honorary Chapter Farmers. The men, acclaimed for their support of FFA activities, were John Ruff and Lee Beery, Waverly grocers, and Don Knight, Havelock meat-market operator.

Winners in the chapter creed speaking contest were selected as part of the program. The three survivors of the intra-chapter competition competed Wednesday night to determine who would represent the chapter in the district contest. Winner was Barry Johnston, second Jon Obery, third, Carl Schlaphoff.

Plane, Believed American, Forced Down In Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—A two-engine plane believed to be American was forced by Israeli military planes to land at Lydda Airport Wednesday night.

Reports from Lydda said the plane asked for weather information on approaching the area and refused to identify itself when ordered to do so.

It was reported to have only two adult passengers and a baby aboard.

It was understood here that the plane had apparently lost its way in the dark while enroute from Athens to Kalandia Airport in the Jordan-held sector of Jerusalem.

After investigation at Lydda, the plane was allowed to proceed but the pilot decided to postpone departure until daylight Thursday.

Red Trade Groups Sent To England As 'Industrial Spies'

LONDON (AP)—Sir David Kelley, former British ambassador to Moscow, charged Wednesday that waves of Soviet trade delegations sent here in 1955-56 under the guise of seeking business were industrial spies.

Kelly, chairman of the British Council, a semi-official group that promotes cultural relations with foreign countries, made the statement in an annual report.

He said the visitors were usually groups of 20 to 25 experts with a leader, often a minister. "In the majority of cases no new orders for goods resulted and there could be no doubt that the principal motive behind most of these visits was acquisition of technical know-how," Kelly said.

115th Birthday Set Today For Civil War Vet Williams

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — White-haired Walter Williams, one of the two remaining Civil War veterans, celebrates his 115th birthday Thursday.

Williams, who has always loved music, will have a western band playing at his home for his birthday. No big celebration has been planned, but friends are expected to drop by during the day for cake and punch.

The Confederate veteran is three years older than John Salling of Slant, Va., the only other living Civil War veteran. Salling also is a Confederate.

Williams' second wife died Nov. 2 at the age of 84 of a heart ailment and he has not been told. A daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, in whose home Williams lives, said she has postponed telling her father because of the effect the news might have.

She said she planned to tell him "the first of next week."

After he is told of his wife's death, "he will live if he wants to make it—but if he doesn't there's not a thing we can do," Mrs. Bowles said.

Williams, born in Itawamba County, Miss., Nov. 14, 1842, lived on a farm at Franklin, Tex., about 125 miles northwest of here, until a few months ago. When he and his wife became unable to care for themselves they moved to the home of Mrs. Bowles.

He joined the Confederate Army when he was 18 and served as a forage master. It was his duty to provide his outfit with food.

Veiled Indictment

A faculty committee of Ohio State University told the country in general and Big Ten conference schools in particular the time has come to throw away the cloak of amateurism in collegiate athletics—to face facts.

It asserted that "skill in any form is marketable in our society. We should realize that it is no longer shameful not to be an amateur . . . it is foolish to expect college sports (a multimillion dollar business) to continue at that level without letting the athlete in for some portion of that gain."

Because of its candor that statement is worthy of praise and respect. Debate the propriety of subsidizing athletes anyway one will—the greatest evil has not been in the hearts of the athletes. Rather it has been in the pretense which has made hyprocrisy the companion of collegiate performance. Not many were convinced that the schools were showing as little interest in the business and profit side of sports as they said they expected the players, that is, the workmen, to show.

But as to the ethics of the Ohio State conclusions there is ample room for reflection. Actually it is possible both for schools and players to restore college sport to an amateur position. It would take a resolve to forget profit and to associate with other schools of like mind. The Ohio State position offers no such alternative. It accepts as a principle that the United States has a price tag on everything and that ethics are useless because they bring no price in the marketplace. As a statement and a description that is the bleakest sort of materialism.

SAC Does It Again

With Gen. Curtis E. LeMay at the controls, the Strategic Air Command again put this nation's best foot forward in an impressive display of air superiority. The feat was a dramatic flight of a giant Stratojet tanker from Westover Air Force Base in Massachusetts to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

With LeMay in the pilot's seat, the flight was made non-stop in just 13 hours and two minutes. Success of the mission gives assurance that the SAC bomber force would have no fuel problems in reaching even the most remote spots of the earth.

The tanker is the traveling filling station for the SAC bombers. With the new Stratojet tanker, the bombers can be refueled in flight with little if any loss of speed and at considerable less danger.

Refueling for SAC bombers is now done with the KC-97, a propeller-driven tanker with much less speed than the jet and a top altitude of 25,000 to 30,000 feet. The bombers, to refuel with a KC-97, had to slow down and lower their altitude, then climb back up to their regular cruising altitude, consuming extra fuel.

For the U.S., the flight is a stern warning to Russia that this nation is far from behind in powers of retaliation. In the face of Sputnik and Russian missile claims, the flight was a timely and welcome event.

For the hard-driving LeMay, now second in command in the Air Force, the event was another major achievement. He personally is given much of the credit for the present-day striking power of the Strategic Air Command and his past includes a number of other record-breaking and important flights.

People Will Not Be Taken In

The House Committee on un-American Activities has warned the country of a nation-wide campaign to cripple the government's anti-subversive program and tie the hands of the FBI.

We hope that discovery is as inaccurate as so many which have been dealt with by both the House and Senate. But in event it is not, the American people can be quick to respond with the assurance that there is no public intention to play sponsor to any force of Communist subversives bent on rotting away our government. Any organization advocating that will not get far.

But turning the coin on its other side it does not follow that the American people believe its congressional committees have always been helpful or effective. Their investigations a few years ago were full of sound and fury and did injury to a lot of pedestrian citizens, but the harvest of provable subversives was disappointing. And to what extent the investigations protected American nuclear secrets is impossible to measure. But it is not academic to say that throughout that tense period the Moscow express ran on schedule with its mail sacks full of information on what the Communists needed to know about what we knew. Any alleged threat to the further life of these investigative committees should not exculpate them from their errors and lack of focus.

Best advice to the committees at this juncture is to do a more public serving job and quit worrying about any default on the part of the American people.

Pacific Victory

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Victory in the Philippine elections seems, on the basis of early returns, to be going to President Carlos P. Garcia. Thus following pre-election predictions, the results would return to office the political heir and follower of former President Ramon Magsaysay who was killed in an airplane accident. The elections are important to the United States because the Philippines are a Pacific stronghold of this country. The islands offer the U.S. military advantages and are an example of democracy in Asia.

★

Even a typhoon which roared through the islands on election day Tuesday did not stop voters from going to the polls. In so voting, the Filipinos have returned to office a man who will maintain close ties with the United States. In his brief service in office after the death of Magsaysay, Garcia has followed closely the pattern set by his predecessor. He has emphasized the improvement of local conditions and worked for the elimination of poverty and graft within his country. The early returns indicate that Garcia will have to work with a vice president of the opposition Liberal party. However, Filipinos exercised their right of split-voting against Garcia's running mate partly on the grounds that he is anti-American. Certainly, there can be no quarrel here with that development. In all respects, it appears that the U.S. has been the winner in the Philippines elections.

A Friend Of Democracy

Another important part of the election is its influence in Asia. Certainly, many Asiatic nations must be watching the Philippine Republic with interest and envy. Here is a country of some 22 million people exercising one of the greatest freedoms of a democracy — the right to vote. The people were given a choice from a number of candidates representing four different parties. Such an event must provoke some serious thinking among people of those Asiatic nations where Communism is the dominating force and freedom has long since vanished. There is nothing in a free society more impressive than an election and the example was set in the Philippines apparently without incident.

With the United Nations bogged down in the middle of disarmament controversies, little attention was given to a proposal there this week by the United States for a $100 million technical development fund to aid under-developed countries. The plan would boost the U.N. technical assistance program from a $30 million to a $100 million-a-year operation. The U.S. has offered to contribute 38 per cent of the total contributions to the fund for 1959 and 33⅓ per cent in 1960. Previously, the U.S. has always supported the program in principle but has tied it in with the disarmament program. It has been the reasoning of this country that the savings realized from an internationally supervised disarmament plan should go, in part, into a fund for aid to underdeveloped nations. The move for such a fund before settlement of the disarmament issue seems to tie in with other actions along this same line.

Aid To Needy Countries

Both the U.S. and Russia seem to be giving some ground in their previous head-knocking stand on disarmament. Russia walked out on U.N. disarmament committee talks with the statement that they wanted the discussions carried out by the 82-member General Assembly. The U.S. stuck to its guns in favor of the committee discussion. Now, both countries are hinting at agreement to a middle road which would not include all the Assembly but would go somewhat beyond the scope of the committee. While it is too much to hope that this little groundgiving might lead to a final solution, it is an encouraging sign. It is about the first sign throughout the years of disarmament talks of either nation's attempting to find a common ground rather than a plan all its own.

Passing Phase

We don't know why America thirsts for any more vexing problems. It already has the biggest supply in history—that is, if there is any such thing as history in this nuclear age. But just in case there is a citizen somewhere who wishes a new worry, the same was supplied by Victor Gruen, an architect and city planner, who edified a symposium sponsored by the General Life Insurance company with a contrast of American and continental cities.

Said he, Europeans cherish their cities which are cultured, beautiful and orderly whereas as American's take flight from theirs because they are uncomfortable, crowded and harsh. If we don't do something about it we shall be in a fix.

We have a feeling that, Sputnik permitting, we shall work our way out of our urban problem in due time just as did Europe in the course of a thousand years. Probably the biggest fault of our cities rests on two things—bursting growth and the horse and buggy idea that people have to live like sardines in order to save steps. The automobile changed the dimensions of distance. The present phase of urbanizing the suburbs is a passing one. The coming task is to suburbanize the cities. When that gets under way America will have something infinitely better than Europe has.

Little Rock Vote

The outcome of municipal elections at Little Rock, Arkansas, seems unusually significant. The city which recently found itself the center of desegregation controversy found that issue in the campaign for school board and city council.

The outcome brought the defeat of the segregationists. Six seats on the council out of seven went to their opponents and the leader of the anti-integration Mothers League was refused a place on the school board.

It would be presumptuous to say that personalities did not count in the Little Rock contest, nor that other issues did not weigh, but one fact was evident—desegregation isn't the overwhelming force in Little Rock. There still seems to be a large number of citizens there who can stand it.

Next To Go May Be Sherman Adams

WASHINGTON — Don't be surprised if still another member of the famed "Eisenhower team" steps out of harness in the not too distant future. He is "Assistant President" Sherman Adams, one of the most powerful men in Washington.

Adams is powerful because of Eisenhower absenteeism and delegation of authority. As a result, relations with Congress, contacts with every agency of government except the State Department operate through Adams.

Every cabinet member except John Foster Dulles is asked to stop in Adams' office after a talk with the President and dictate a memo regarding the points he took up with Ike and what was agreed to. For, in the long run, it's Adams who carries out any commitments made by the President—or in some cases reverses presidential commitments.

However, Adams is now being made the scapegoat for missile-satellite failures, has rubbed Vice President Nixon the wrong way, and has pulled wires wholesale in the independent agencies. If the Moulder Watchdog Committee ever gets the files from these commissions, supposed to be quasi-judicial, independent agencies, it will be seen that, instead of answering the will of the people, they have been answering the will of Sherman Adams.

WHITE HOUSE SECRETS

Edward N. Gadsby, the Boston lawyer who now heads the Securities and Exchange Commission, doesn't like to be investigated by Congress. His job is to investigate Wall Street, to see whether it's on the up-and-up. But he just doesn't like having Congress investigate him to see whether his commission's on the up-and-up.

Joe Conlon, investigator for the Moulder Watchdog Committee, had previously asked SEC Commissioners for a list of all correspondence between the SEC and the White House and with members of Congress.

He was looking, among other things, for the hand that rocks the SEC cradle—Sherman Adams. For in Washington it's said: "The Adams hand that rocks the cradle is mightier than the Eisenlower hand that wields the sword."

"May I ask you, sir, whether you prepared such a list?" Conlon asked.

"No," shrugged Gadsby.

"Do you intend to prepare such a list?" asked Conlon.

"No," said Gadsby.

Noticing a stenographer busily taking notes, Conlon demanded: "Is there a transcript of this meeting being taken?"

Gadsby replied "no," and the stenographer abruptly stopped writing.

"Perhaps we should adjourn until I can get a stenographer, and we can meet tomorrow," offered Conlon.

"I don't know whether the commission will be willing to meet you tomorrow," snorted Gadsby. "The commission is not going to submit to an inquisition."

Fumbled Stevenson Invitation Flopped

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of all that White House confusion over the role of Adlai Stevenson in the developing foreign policy crisis is that it need never have happened.

President Eisenhower could have framed a command which Stevenson would have had—to use his own words—a desire and duty to accept.

Instead, acting wholly through Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, the White House presented Stevenson with a proposal which would have mired him in an administrative jungle and put him in an impossible situation with leaders of his own party in Congress.

The story behind the day's contradictory headlines began last month when Dulles invited Stevenson to help with a bipartisan American program for strengthening the NATO alliance. No amateur on the tangled web of government administration and politics, Stevenson sought through memo and conversation to ascertain the exact terms of the offer.

It developed that what Dulles had in mind was that Stevenson should accept membership on a task force whose assignment would be to come up with a NATO program which the President could present to the congressional leaders early in December.

The time allotted was, of course, very short. It was apparent also that the President had not reconciled the conflicting interests and ideas within his own administration. While Stevenson, Dulles and company worked in the front room, there would be nothing to prevent AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss and others from coming in the back door with their second guesses.

It seemed to the former governor of Illinois that the President could not delegate to any task force, even if he so desired, the responsibility to develop a clear line for the administration. Only the President, Stevenson foresaw, could give the orders and outline the policy that all administration officials must respect.

This apprehension of divided counsels is what Stevenson sought to convey in his suggestion that he could not attempt to help formulate policy.

No doubt Stevenson conferred also with leaders of his party. About that, nothing is admitted, but some things are obvious.

Democrats think they have at last got some red meat for their campaigns after five lean years and they will not want it taken away quite so quickly. Nor can Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson be expected to care greatly for a maneuver which would blunt the edge of his defense investigation before it got started.

Stevenson himself brushed aside the fact that Mr. Eisenhower dealt with him at arm's length. His aides insisted, however, that he remember that the President is and must be the staunch upholder of any government status Stevenson might have which could be meaningful. They thought the approach through Dulles, rather than a personal one, was a bad omen.

Stevenson stressed in his statement his offer of limited cooperation. It still stands.

BOB CONSIDINE

Russia Advances Atoms For Peace

MOSCOW — Russia will be producing two-and-one-half million kilowatt hours of electric power from atomic reactors in six power plants by 1960, we were told today, in the course of a tour through the Soviet Union's "atoms-for-peace" exhibit at the nation's huge, permanent industrial exhibition.

Our proudly confident guide was a stocky, friendly girl graduate of Moscow University who, when thanked at the end of the tour, straightened up like a soldier and said, "It is my duty."

She showed us models of two power stations, one of 5,000 kilowatts power, completed in 1954 at Dubno, about 100 miles south of Moscow, and another type capable of producing, she said, 400,000 and 600,000 kilowatts.

The girl guide, in a red woolen dress, led us next to a wall map and a model of "Lenin," Russia's first atomic-power vessel. It will be an icebreaker capable of staying at sea for one year opening icebound ports.

Then came the feature of the exhibition, a 150-kilowatt operating reactor. To this layman's eye it was a great deal like the hundred-watter the United States sent to Geneva for our own atoms-for-peace exposition following the summit conference.

But it seemed shallower. At the bottom of a tank of distilled water about 20 feet deep glowed uranium 235 nuggets which gave off an arctic blue radiance. She did not show the control board at which the power is turned on and off by alternately removing neutron-absorbing carbon and graphite rods from the nest of uranium bars and then replacing them. They are "blotters."

When the rods are pulled out, a controlled chain reaction takes place and heat which is transformed into energy is generated.

There followed a trip down the line of machines built to detect by radioactive isotopes flaws in metal and machined parts, count bottles of pop as they pass through a tiny radioactive beam aimed at a production line belt, treat cancer and trace the effects of various radiated foods on humans and animals. There were especially graphic "before and after" pictures in the cancer section of the exhibit.

The "before" of a woman patient showed a horrid foot-square open cancer on her back. The "after" looked like the back of Venus de Milo. Radioactive cobalt nails were exhibited as well as X-rays of what they purportedly had achieved after being drawn into malignant bones of cancer victims.

The industrial exhibition was part of a huge show on grounds marked by permanent buildings in the distinctive architecture of 15 Soviet republics — Russian federation, Ukranian, Byelorussian, Uzbek, Azaka, Georgian, Azerbaijan, Lithuanian, Moldavian, Latvian, Armenian, Turkmen, Estonian, Kirghiz and Tajik.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

His Theme Song Is 'Louise'

By HAL HASSELBALCH
Star Staff Writer

Louise is the only person in the Robert F. Holbert household at 6217 Sunrise Rd. who admits to liking Rex, the family's 5-year-old pet.

Rex knows that Louise is the only one he can really depend upon at all times. He will take affection offered by anyone and he looks to Louise's father for a few favors, but Louise, he knows, is the one who is his "sponsor," so to speak.

When her aunt offered the dog to the family, Louise was the only one eager to bring Rex home. However, the case has appeared to be one of those instances when no one admits to being "taken in" by a dog.

When Rex was being interviewed, all able-bodied members of the family were on deck to recount Rex's life story. If the facts could be known, they might show that all the other Holberts are envious of the rapport between Louise and Rex.

Louise often babysits for couples in the neighborhood. If Rex gets outdoors he invariably shows up at the door of the house where Louise happens to be.

If Louise leaves on a vacation, Rex spends the duration under her bed. He follows her to school and on one occasion he tracked her to her home-room inside the school building.

He might have carried off the ruse had he not howled during "To the Colors."

☆ ☆ ☆

Like all members of most families, Rex knows and respects the bread-winner. Louise's father is the one Rex looks to at feeding time.

Rex often eats his rations from a cut-down milk carton. Even when asleep the sound of knife meeting milk carton brings Rex on the run.

He knows his limits in the Holbert household. He does not cross the line between dining room and kitchen no matter how tempting the activity on the kitchen side of the partition.

Louise has Rex's loyalty and he expects the same devotion in return. He will not tolerate her playing with other persons' pets.

The back yard is Rex's domain. When Louise leaves he gets out to follow her (1) by digging under the fence or (2) by a "Rube Goldberg" device.

In the latter instance he leaps on top of a garbage can. From there he springs onto a coiled hose near the fence. With another intricate jump he clears the fence. Once, due to the unsteady footing afforded by the hose, he slipped between several turns of the hose, prisoner until rescued by Louise's father.

Rex's main contribution to society, the family says, is his summer job of grasshopper catching. After stalking his prey, Rex leaps upon the doomed hopper, tears off its legs and piles it in the heap of victims near the wall in one corner of the yard.

In Rex's old neighborhood—the family used to live in University Place—he was depended upon to announce all new curiosities that came that way. Whenever there was something new around, Rex would bark at it until people came to see what it was. That is how he came to be known as "The Patrolman" in his neighborhood.

With ordinances against roaming dog reporters, he had to give up that pursuit.

Whether the Holberts admit it or not, Rex is a great asset in their attempts to be hospitable. He has so entertained friends of the Holbert girls that they have tagged him "Rex, the Wonder Dog." And the Holberts say they do not understand that, admonishing, "He doesn't sit up or anything."

But all this lack of appreciation does not daunt Rex; he knows Louise loves him and that is enough to keep him happy and at home.

LOUISE HOLBERT AND REX

Mousetrap Baited

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: G. A. Spidel had this to say: "It is with regret that farmers have come to realize the bankruptcy of the agricultural policies of the administration. Never was this bankruptcy more clearly shown than by the proposal of Republican policy makers in the state to increase price supports as a program for the coming election."

I wonder if these Republican policy makers are thinking that it is the same old trap and the same foolish mice they caught in the days of William Jennings Bryan. In those days it worked fine. Men strutted around the street wearing imitation silver dollars five inches wide, telling people that was the size of dollar they would have to carry if Bryan were elected President.

We need broad-minded men in public office today who are not afraid to stand on their own two feet and work for the interest of the common rank and file of our fair state. After the administration has kicked our farmers into bankruptcy through the efforts of Secretary Benson and his sliding scale of farm price supports, our Republican leaders come crying around, claiming that they must raise price supports. Oh, yes, they have the mousetrap ready.

As one farmer was working, he noticed that water was running down the drainage ditch. He asked a neighbor if they were having a flood. His friend replied: "Oh, no, Secretary Benson is in town and that's the tears he is shedding about the farmer's sad financial plight. Don't be alarmed. When he gets back to Washington, those tears will dry up and he'll slide our farm price supports down again."

Yes, our Republican policy makers in Nebraska have the same old mousetrap set and baited with promises as of old. But let's hope that the voters in Nebraska will remember that promises are like pie crust — easily broken — and that they won't get caught.

Quoting Mr. Spidel further: "Higher prices must result in increased production. This is not debatable. Higher prices must therefore be accompanied by stringent controls to limit production or provision by the government to finance, store and dispose of the surplus. The farmer has had more than enough of the former, and the taxpayer had his fill of the latter."

How true this statement is. When I was a young man in 1896 farmers sold their corn for nine cents a bushel and the grain brokers kept prices down to a minimum until they had most of the wheat under control. Then prices would go up. Under the Republican administration during the years of the great depression, wheat sold as low as 29 cents a bushel. Farmers didn't receive enough from their crops to pay taxes or the interest on the money they borrowed in many cases to live on.

Let us not be misled. They still have that old mousetrap under their coat. I, too, am a Republican but I don't have to change my party affiliation to be an honest man. Let's get posted on our candidates and know the men we vote for. We should put out a sign: "He-men wanted to look after our interests in Washington and here in our own legislature, as we are now without representation."

Hurrah for men of the past who fought organized greed to a standstill. Let the farmer, the laborer, and the small businessman join hands and oust those who would deprive us of our ballot.

JACOB C. FERGUSON, SR.

Promises

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: And furthermore, not content with sending this poor helpless puppy—cold, alone and frightened — into outer space, the brutes have to go and poison her — under the guise of humanitarianism. I cry shame, shame on such humanitarianism. This should show how much their promises are worth!

Khrushchev Says U.S. Won't Catch Up Soon

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev said Wednesday night the United States lags behind the Soviet Union in rocket production and won't catch up soon.

The Soviet Communist party boss converted an Egyptian Embassy reception into a free-for-all news conference. He told a dozen reporters in a spirited give-and-take that the Unitetd States does not have big rockets like those the Russians have. He said he doubted it will have them soon.

All of the important Soviet government figures turned out for the diplomatic reception, ostensibly in honor of Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, visiting Egyptian minister of war.

Early in the festivities, Khrushchev buttonholed Amer and the Syrian ambassador and proposed a toast "to our armies—the armies of the Soviet Union, Egypt and Syria."

(The Soviet Union has furnished arms, equipment and technical advisors to Egypt and Syria. The Russians, in launching accusations that Turkey planned to invade Syria recently, said they would stand by their Syrian friends.)

In addition to Premier Bulganin, economic czar Joseph Kuzmin and other ranking overnment figures, the new defense minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky attended.

Not Present

Ousted Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov was not present. "Zhukov is on a leave he fully deserves," Khrushchev told the reporters.

He also had barbs for the British and the Japanese at the party.

When Suemitsu Kadowaki, the Japanese ambassador, approached to greet him, the Soviet party boss stretched out his arms and with a huge grin said "when are we going to sign our peace treaty?"

Kadowaki said his government is ready but there are "certain conditions to be fulfilled beforehand, as you know."

"Conditions!" Khrushchev exclaimed. "No conditions. Let's sign the treaty and be done with it. We can talk about conditions later."

Khrushchev's remark about U.S. rockets came after a British correspondent in the cluster around the ebullient Soviet leader suggested that the Soviet Union halt firing its big rockets.

'Pickle Them?'

"We have to test them," Khrushchev said. "What can we do, pickle them?"

"Put them in a museum," a correspondent said.

"No room," Khrushchev answered. "Let's sink them all at sea. We'd be happy to do that if you do."

An American reporter asked "What if we don't have the same type to sink?"

Khrushchev replied: "Certainly. I know you don't have the kind of rockets we have, and you won't have them soon."

He also commented on the speed of a camera an American reporter was using.

"These Americans have all kinds of secrets from us," he said. "They beat us on cameras but we beat them on rockets. Let's exchange. We give you our rockets and you give us your cameras."

The reporter immediately tendered the camera. "Here is is, I'll take a rocket," he said.

'Too Heavy'

Khrushchev reared back saying "You can't take it. It's too heavy."

In answer to questions, Khrushchev said President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and all other American leaders would be welcomed to Moscow "as dear friends" and that even British Laborites would be welcomed.

"Political leaders must not bear grudges," he said.

But he renewed old charges that during the 1956 visit he and Bulganin made to Britain, the British Tory government prevented them from meeting British people.

"We got fed up talking with (Sir Anthony) Eden and (Selwyn) Lloyd but we were starving to meet British people," he said. The British government "did everything in its power" to prevent such contacts, he charged.

Frank Slusser, Retired Nebraska Banker, Is Dead

Lincoln Star Special

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. — Funeral services for Frank E. Slusser, 89-year-old retired banker, have tentatively been scheduled for Friday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Grand Island. He died Wednesday.

A native of Iowa, he had resided in Nebraska over 50 years and was in the banking business at Wood River, Clarks and Grand Island prior to his retirement.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. A. E. Swift of San Juan, Puerto Rico; and two grandchildren. Mrs. Slusser formerly taught at the State Home for Children in Lincoln and at Brownell Hall in Omaha. Mrs. Swift's husband serves as Episcopal bishop of the Virgin Islands.

Farm Bureau Group To Study Policy

Members of the Nebraska farm Bureau Federation permanent resolutions committee will start work in Lincoln Thursday on policy development on the state level.

Resolutions studied by the committee are to be ready for distribution next Tuesday to delegates to the state convention.

Earlier, representatives from the 60 counties affiliated with the Nebraska Farm Bureau met in Lincoln to study and consolidate the more than 600 resolutions which had come in from the counties.

On the 1957 resolutions committee are:

Members-at-large—Roland Nelson of Mead, Nebraska Farm Bureau vice president and permanent chairman of the committee: Mrs. Willard Hess, Sheridan County; Mrs. Roy Coburn, Gage County; Carl Perrin, Colfax County; Reuben Ruhl, Banner County.

Representing the southeast — Bernard Sullivan, Lancaster County; Mrs. Herman Bath, Nemaha County; Henry Schemmel, Otoe County.

Northeast—Mrs. George Holmstedt, Merrick County; Albert Meyer, Knox County; Alvin Massman, Madison County.

Central—Mrs. Herman Link, Buffalo County; Henry Rickertsen, Dawson County; Orville Skiles, Harlan County.

West—Mrs. Stanley Neel, Red Willow County; Berton Cunningham, Cheyenne County; Don Harford, Dundy County.

RETARDED CHILDREN'S WEEK SCHEDULED

Gov. Victor Anderson Wednesday proclaimed the week of Nov. 17-27 as National Retarded Children's Week in Nebraska.

Mayor of Lincoln Commends LARC

Mayor Bennett Martin, in a proclamation on Retarded Children's Week, Nov. 17-27, commended the Lancaster Assn. for Retarded Children.

He said LARC deserves commendation for "bringing before the general public the essential facts about mental retardation, and for inspiring public co-operation for a broad, concerted attack upon this major social problem."

The mayor urged everyone "to give moral and financial support" to the LARC School and Robindale Home.

Weather Bureau Figures Show October Unusually Wet, Cold

Lincoln had an unusually cold, wet October, according to the Weather Bureau, with rainfall nearly twice the normal amount.

Total precipitation for the year stands at 32.45 inches, making 1957 the wettest year since 1951 when 40.07 inches were reported.

October rainfall ranged up to 6.51 inches at Firth in southern Lancaster County.

Temperatures averaged 50.5 degrees, or 2.6 degrees below the long-time mean.

The low reading in the state was 14 degrees, recorded at Nenzel. The month's high was 92 degrees, recorded at Trenton Dam early in the month.

Average October precipitation, with the amount of departure from normal, included:

Panhandle 1.65 inches, up .83; north central 2.15, up 1.07; northeast 2.43 up 1.14; central 2.36, up 1.33; east-central 3.04, up 1.64; southwest 1.76, up .95; south-central 2.18, up 1.11, and southeast 3.30, up 1.61.

Both Parties React Coolly To Ike's Plan To Increase Budget

. . . 'Great Deal' To Be Spelled Out

WASHINGTON (INS) — Congressmen of both parties reacted coolly Wednesday night to President Eisenhower's disclosure that the federal budget will have to be increased to pay for the stepped up missile program.

Rep. Lawrence H. Smith (R-Wis) declared flatly: "I don't buy that bill of goods."

Smith said there is ample money available to the Defense Department to carry out the missile program. He added: "It isn't a question of money. It's a question of intelligent mobilization."

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said Mr. Eisenhower left "a great deal" to be spelled out before Congress accepts any increase in the budget.

McClellan also said the President has failed to give the people the reassurance they hoped for in the face of Russia's rapid advances in missiles and satellites.

He said: "If this address and his speech of last week are all that he has to offer there is still something lacking."

Sen. William Langer (R-ND) termed Mr. Eisenhower's address "a good speech delivered under most difficult circumstances."

When asked whether he would go along with a budget increase, he said that would depend on whether finance committee chairman Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) and his colleagues thought it was necessary.

Byrd was unavailable for comment.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM) said he favors an accelerated missile program, "the sooner the better." But he said he hopes Mr. Eisenhower was not referring to public works projects when he mentioned that whole categories would have to be eliminated to help provide money for the increased missile program.

Chavez said public works projects "are just as much a part of nation defense as missiles" and added: "I'd prefer to cut foreign aid."

Arms To Tunisia Warned

PARIS (INS) — The United States warned France Wednesday the Eisenhower administration might ship arms to Tunisia if France cannot settle her dispute with her former African protectorate.

U.S. Ambassador Amory Houghton, it was learned, informed Premier Felix Gaillard and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau the U.S. feels France should decide speedily on whether to reply favorably to Tunisia's request for weapons.

Houghton, it was believed, urged France to agree to the shipment of arms to Tunisia from Italy. If France opposes this plan, the ambassador reportedly warned, Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser will send weapons to her sister Moslem state. Egypt reportedly has a shipload of arms ready to go to Tunisia on short notice.

The French were said to have protested to the U.S. because American and British officials have been discussing the Tunisian case without informing France.

Meet Envoy

Following Houghton's call on Gaillard and Pineau the Premier and foreign minister talked with Gaston Palewski, the French ambassador to Italy.

Then the cabinet met in an extraordinary night session. The ministers reportedly studied Tunisia's latest charges that her borders were violated by French troops and that French warplanes strafed a Tunisian village Tuesday.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba has asked the United States and Italy, as well as France, for weapons. Italy, it was understood, is ready to furnish enough arms to outfit a Tunisian battalion.

Bourguiba said last month that he might resort to force to prevent French troops and planes from crossing into Tunisia in pursuit of Algerian rebels.

Air Career Given Up To Save Brother

HONDO, Tex. (AP)—A 26-year-old Air Force lieutenant Wednesday gave up his flying career to save his identical twin brother from almost certain death.

Lt. Sam Merriman, Hondo Air Force Base, turned in his resignation so he can give a kidney to his brother Billy, in critical condition at Veterans Administration Hospital, Oklahoma City.

The Air Force said Merriman would have to resign when it learned he planned giving up a kidney.

"Naturally," Merriman said Wednesday night, "my decision was to go ahead with the operation." But he said he is still hoping the intervention of President Eisenhower or the Oklahoma congressional delegation will enable him to remain in the Air Force.

Temporary Duty

The lieutenant said he was ordered to temporary, one-year flying duty with the Air Force in July. He is an officer in the Texas Air National Guard and lived in Dallas prior to the Hondo assignment.

A native of Shamrock, Okla., Lt. Merriman said he and his brother served four years in the Navy, and were discharged five years ago. They served together, he added, for three years.

"I have known about this (the necessity for the transplant) for about five years. Actually, my decision was made three years ago."

The need for the Operation, Lt. Merriman continued, became urgent a month ago when his brother suffered an attack. He said his brother was in very critical condition.

AERIAL HITCHHIKER

These pictures show how volunteer Harry Conway was pulled off the ground with special air pickup equipment by a plane traveling more than 150 miles an hour in a demonstration at Georgetown, Del. At top, the pickup begins with Conway keeping his elbows in close and hands under his chin to prevent arm or hand injury. In the center picture, his blurred body swings through upright poles as the plane picks up speed. At bottom, Conway gains altitude as the plane begins to climb with its human cargo. Conway, weighing 175 pounds and six feet tall, was pulled into the plane three minutes after being taken off the ground. (AP Wirephoto.)

FARM MAY BE HEALTHFUL, BUT NOT 'SAFEST' PLACE

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

CLEVELAND (AP) — Working on a farm is not as safe as commonly believed—even by farmers themselves—the American Public Health Assn. (APHA) was told Wednesday.

Richard A. Tjalma, a veterinarian associated with the Institute of Agricultural Medicine (IAM) of the State University of Iowa—first institute of its kind in the United States—said so in an address to the APHA's 85th annual meeting.

He declared that statements like "the farm is the safest and healthiest place in the world to live" are "frequently quoted in rural areas."

Not The Safest

But he commented: "Although it may be the 'healthiest,' available statistics prove it something other than the safest place to live. The number of farmers killed on the job in 1955 exceeded that of any other single occupational group."

Declaring that of a total of 14,200 occupational deaths that year, 3,700, or 26 per cent, appeared among farmers, Tjalma continued:

"Assuming there are five million farmers out of a work force of 70 million in the United States, we conolude 7 per cent of the working population have 26 per cent of the fatal accidents.

Ranks Third

"The on-the-job fatal accident rate ranks farming as the third most dangerous occupation; it is preceded only by mining and construction.

He added that "tractor accidents alone account for approximately 700 agricultural deaths each year.

One of the problems in connection with mechanized equipment accidents, he indicated, is that certain groups of farmers "consider safety devices 'sissified' and therefore unacceptable."

Zsa Zsa Drops Last Name Professionally

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—From now on, just call her Zsa Zsa.

The Gabor girl of that intriguing name announced Wednesday that she is dropping her last name, which she has changed several times by marriage anyway, for professional purposes.

"Everywhere people know me as Zsa Zsa, so why bother with anything else," she said.

Msgr. Helmann Resumes Job After Surgery

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Maurice W. Helmann is back at his post of editor and business manager of The Southern Nebraska Register, official newspaper of the Catholic diocese of Lincoln.

Msgr. Helmann underwent surgery at St. Joseph's Hospital in Omaha. He was instrumental in organizing the Register and has been its editor since its first edition in 1922.

Rocket 'Bases' At Sea Urged

. . . By Sen. Jackson

PARIS (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) suggested Wednesday that submerged or floating platforms sprinkled in the seas as nuclear rocket bases could be NATO's answer to Soviet missiles.

Jackson expounded on his revolutionary idea at a news conference after U.S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, NATO naval commander, declared all NATO nations should have atomic submarines.

Wright told NATO's Parliamentary Assembly the United States should modify the McMahon Act on nuclear secrecy to clear the way for equipped allied navies with submarines such as the U.S.S. Nautilis. So far only France among the allies is building an atomic submarine.

Jackson, here for the assembly, said that with floating platforms NATO's European members "could take their retaliatory capacity and move it way out to sea.

He said the Russians would have to concentrate on finding and destroying the platforms, instead of the Allies' home installations and populations.

Atomic submarines able to move about and escape detection for long periods would make ideal platforms, he added, and the Russians "would waste billions of dollars worth of equipment and technology" in meeting the new strategy.

Dean Martin In Hospital For Hip Ailment Surgery

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Popular singer Dean Martin entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Wednesday instead of catching a plane to New York as he had planned. Thursday Dean will undergo surgery for a hip ailment which has bothered him for some time.

Dr. Victor Lands, who insisted that the singer-actor go into the hospital, will perform the operation. He described the ailment as minor.

Dean was booked to appear Sunday on a television program out of New York but he has had to cancel out to remain in the hospital for at least two weeks.

Czechoslovakia Has A 6-Day Mourning Period

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist government ordered a six-day period of mourning for President Antonin Zapotocky.

A state funeral for the 72-year-old leader, who died in a Prague Sanatorium early Wednesday of a heart ailment, will be held Monday. Delegations from the Communist world are expected to attend.

The new president will be chosen by the Communist-controlled Parliament. Party Chief Antonin Novotny, 53, and Jaromir Dolansky, 62, deputy premier, appeared to be the front runners.

HST Says Don't Worry About Sputnik

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Democratic President Harry S. Truman Wednesday night advised the nation not to worry about Russia's Sputniks. But he said we ought to worry about Little Rock and civil rights.

In an address on civil rights, Truman told the joint defense appeal of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'Rith:

"Our attitude on this vital struggle for equal opportunity and human liberty is being watched by the world.

"Don't worry about the Sputniks. We can take care of that situation.

"Let's make sure we preserve the greatest inspiration we can give the world, the liberties and the rights we profess through one of the most wonderful documents in the world—the Constitution of the United States."

'Good Friend'

Truman has said little previously about the Little Rock school integration crisis. When Gov. Orval Faubus used the National Guard to keep nine Negroes out of Central High School, Truman declined comment except to remark that Faubus "is a wonderful fellow and a very good friend of mine."

But Wednesday night he said:

"I was shocked to see the governor of Arkansas take it upon himself to obstruct the enforcement of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court decision expressed the stated purpose and intent of the privileges as well as civic and economic rights to every member of our population, regardless of race, creed or color.

In Little Rock, the nine Negro students have been attending high school classes under military protection since Sept. 24 when President Eisenhower sent in federal paratroopers and federalized the Arkansas National Guard.

Truman received from sponsors of the Hotel Commodore dinner, a "Human Rights Award" in the form of a plaque extolling him as an American "whose contributions to the national welfare epitomize the ideal of American freedom."

NU RESEARCH WORK SHOWS 1,000% RISE

. . . During The Past Eight Years

The principal research agency in the state — the University of Nebraska — has shown almost a 1,000 per cent increase in research activities during the past eight years.

Outside grants for research projects will surpass the $1 million mark this school year, according to Dr. John C. Weaver, research administrator and dean of the Graduate College.

This compares with $131,446 given to the University during the 1949-50 school year.

200 Studies

In both applied and basic research, the University has about 200 active research studies in natural, physical, biological and social sciences.

About 70 per cent of research grants are for basic research, Dr. Howard E. Wise, associate dean of the Graduate College, reported.

"Besides adding to our basic knowledge, they also provide excellent training for graduate students who in many cases are used as assistants," Dr. Wise said.

The Atomic Energy Commission is supporting several projects including irradiation effects on plant metabolism, conducted by Dr. F. A. Haskins of agronomy; psychological effects of radiation on rats, directed by Dr. W. J. Arnold of psychology; radiation and quantitive genetics of crops, directed by Dr. C. O. Gardner of agronomy, and range-energy relations of slow ions, directed by Dr. Theodore Jorgensen Jr., of physics.

Funds From AEC

The AEC has given the University about $100,000 since the end of World War II for Dr. Jorgenson's project which involves the action of protons.

Other projects:

Cosmic ray research, directed by Dr. R. L. Chasson of physics.

Cardiogram transmissions, under Dr. F. L. Dunn of College of Medicine.

Experimental diabetes in the monkey, by Dr. G. E. Gibbs of College of Medicine.

Cancer research, by Dr. H. B. Hunt of College of Medicine.

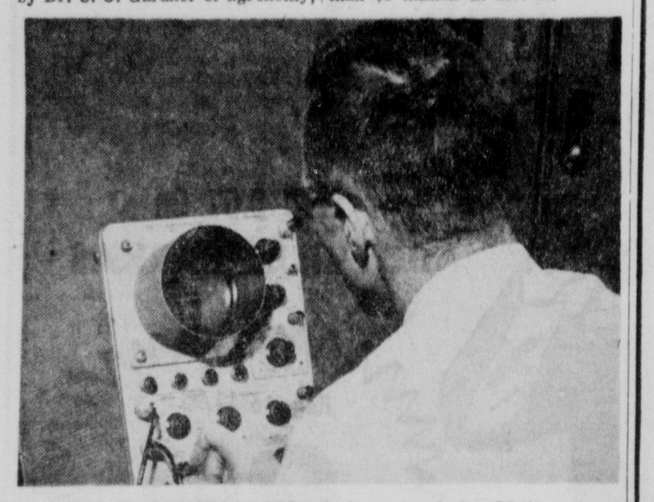
Air pollution, by Dr. D. M. Pace of physiology.

Teaching Study

Nebraska science teaching improvement study on the use of science counselors, by Dr. James A. Rutledge of Extension Division.

Effects of high-energy particle irradiation upon the properties of metals, by Dr. Edgar A. Pearlstein of physics.

The rise in outside grants to the University for research projects is shown in this summary: $131,446 in 1949-50, $302,210 in 1950-51, $423,774 in 1951-52, $343,733 in 1952-53, $403,043 in 1953-54, $542,127 in 1954-55, $709,627 in 1955-56, $838,415 in 1956-57, and an estimated more than $1 million in 1957-58.



DR. R. L. CHASSON, chairman of the University of Nebraska physics department, uses an oscilloscope to check the cosmic ray monitor equipment which is a vital part of this cosmic ray study, financed by the National Science Foundation.

Schools In Nebraska Ask For 13% More Teachers

Requests from Nebraska schools for teachers have increased about 13 per cent the past three years, while requests from all sources are up 60 per cent.

Those figures were reported by the University of Nebraska Teacher Placement Service.

This year requests from all sources outnumbered the supply of applicants by 14 to one, according to Dr. W. C. Meierhenry, service director.

Last year the ratio was 10 to one and the previous year it was eight to one, he said.

Positions in Nebraska went to 421 teachers and school administrators who registered with the placement service, or 23 more than last year and 45 more than two years ago.

However, 201 persons accepted positions in 34 other states and three foreign countries.

California took 50 teachers from the NU service, Iowa 28 and Colorado 23.

Requests had come from 43 states and 26 foreign countries.

There has been little change in the subject areas in which teachers shortages exist, Dr. Meierhenry said.

The demand for English teachers heads the list, followed by physical education, mathematics, music and science.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

"If you love her, give her a mink." That is what the advertising says this bright November morning with Santa Claus peeking around the next page of the calendar.

The advertising boys are very smart. They employ psychological research people to think up things like this.

"Gents," says the psycho dealer, "this slogan is designed to raise merry hades around merry Yuletide. For a doll is a peculiar item, to put it mildly. The way a lady figures out these things is backwards.

"When a lady gets through figuring this out, she reads it: 'If he doesn't give me a mink, he doesn't love me.' Such conclusions," says the psycho man, "are called womanly intuition. Intuition rating 8-5 over logic on the morning line of the ladies' magazines."

The advertisement is then placed in magazines on 180-pound coated stock. Happy couple under the Xmas tree. She is trying on the mink. He has his back against the wall. In this way you cannot see the seat of his pants are wearing through.

☆ ☆ ☆

I love you truly. Yet am unable to buy mink. The very best I can do is buy you mink oil.

This is an amazing invention. A lady doctor has discovered the best thing next to mink is mink oil. She gets the oil right underneath the skin. And I guess that is as close to the skin as we are going to get this merry Yule.

She mixes this with creams and unguents and secret formulas.

"An aid to tightening, smoothing and toning sagging neck and chin muscles," I read on the label.

It does not say how you get this oil out of the mink. But I imagine you fry it out. Like bacon. Keep it in an old coffee can.

Anyway, it stands to reason that nothing could be classier than oil that comes from right under a coat that would set you back a cold grand. Wholesale.

☆ ☆ ☆

The rare stuffs that go into tightening my love's sagging neck muscles is a wonder to read about.

When avocados were rare as roc's eggs, we shored up our throat muscles with avocado creams. The throat holder-uppers took cold creams and mashed up avocado in it. With only a minor change in the formula it would have made a spectacular salad dressing.

By and by avocados came down in price. They were all over the grocery stores. Even the poor could walk by and squeeze them to see if they were ripe.

You cannot bolster your neck with cheap vegetables. Intuition should tell you that.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, the neck business just rocked along. Until queen bee jelly was discovered. This is so rare that even queen bees are on rations.

Right away, queen bee jelly was inserted in skin tightener.

It not only tightened up the muscles. It was so powerful you had to be careful it did rejuvenate you right back into pigtails.

There seems to be a great deal of queen bee jelly around these days. I imagine the queen bees are sagging from the crash program of producing it.

Mink oil, now. That is entirely new. I do not figure there is much oil in a mink. A mink is a nervous creature and probably does not run to fat.

Coming from a mink it is very posh. A classy item.

And if I cannot purchase you a mink coat for Xmas, love, the least I can give you is the old oil.

Doctors Urge Diabetes Test

. . . For All Nebraskans

The chairman of the diabetes committee of the Nebraska State Medical Assn. Wednesday urged Nebraskans to have tests made by their family doctors during Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 17-23.

Dr. Morris Margolin of Omaha said a test is "one way to make sure that you" are not one of the more than one million persons in the U.S. who have diabetes but do not know it.

"Diabetes does not show partiality to any age or sex," Dr. Margolin said.

Symptoms include excessive thirst, excessive urination, slow healing of cuts and bruises, easy tiring, changing vision and loss of weight.

Membership Drive Reports To Come At YMCA Dinner

The Lincoln YMCA will hold a report dinner at 6 p.m. Friday for the boys' membership drive. Boys and their dads will attend. Another report banquet will be held the following Friday.

Prizes for boys who go over their membership quotas include a bicycle and a plane ride to Omaha for a boy and his dad. All prizes have been donated by interested Lincolnites.

Phil Swaim, a junior at Lincoln Northeast High School, is general chairman of the membership drive.

Division chairmen are Paul True, Lincoln High junior, and Charles Eno, a senior at Lincoln Southeast.

GI To Again Host State Midwinter Legion Gathering

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—The American Legion's midwinter Nebraska conference will return to Grand Island this winter after a year's absence.

The conference will be held Feb. 14 and 15, Jack Beachler, president of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce, announced at a meeting of the chamber board of directors.

The 1957 conference was held in North Platte.

Also announced were a federal inspection of the Grand Island National Guard unit, Company H, 134th Infantry Regiment, on the night of Nov. 20 at the armory, and a meeting of the Highway 30 Association Nov. 20.

HONEY PRODUCERS TO CONVENE HERE

Members of the Nebraska Honey Producers Assn. will assemble in Lincoln Thursday for their two-day annual meeting.

Charles Moosman of Valentine heads the association.

FRISCO-BORN WOMAN ARTIST VOLUNTEERS TO AID REDS

Editor's note: This is the fourth of a series of articles in which confessed Soviet spy Jack Soble tells the innermost secrets of an espionage ring in the U.S. of which he was a leader for 15 years.

By JACK SOBLE

(Written with Jack Lotto)

(World copyright, 1957, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Jane Foster Zlatovski spelled sex appeal.

This slim, trim modernist artist, who had been born and raised on aristocratic Nob Hill in San Francisco, willingly turned her asset into a Soviet spy weapon. Coldly, methodically, this attractive woman worked on American military and intelligence agents to shed their inhibitions — and secrets.

If anybody could be described as a modern-day Mata Hari, that would be the hard-drinking, intensely-jealous Jane. For nearly 10 years she turned in her reports —with photographs — on American intelligence and counter-intelligence agents. She did her job well and never complained about the fact that she received $75 a month, plus expenses.

When I first met this dedicated Communist Party member, she had just finished a three-year job with the super-secret Office of Strategic Services.

Moving To Vienna

She was in New York on a vacation before moving into another sensitive spot with the U.S. Army in Vienna and Salzburg, Austria, where she was to be in charge of the Rot-Weiss-Rot (Red-White-Red) radio station.

Like her German spy prototype, Jane was married to a ne'er-do-well Army officer, George Zlatovski, of Duluth, Minn., at the time a lieutenant in U.S. Army Intelligence.

He also became a Soviet agent under my command. His work was to bring terror and fear to many refugees who had fled to the safety of the U.S. from behind the Iron Curtain.

The first time I met Jane, I was impressed with her strong dedication to the "cause."

Big Impact

Her first report, apparently, also made a big impact in the Kremlin. I received verification of this fact in February, 1946, when I picked up a newspaper less than two months after Jane had turned over a report on Indonesia she obtained while in the employ of the OSS.

"Manuilsky charges British in Indonesia threaten peace," I read. My interest aroused, I perused the story of the hot debate at the United Nations Security Council meeting in London.

Ukranian Foreign Minister Manuilsky — a long-time collaborator with Stalin — was demanding that a commission be appointed to investigate his charges against the British.

Recognized Statements

As I read his speech, which accused the British of suppressing the nationalist ambitions of the Indonesians, I thought I recognized statements I had seen before.

Then it hit me. Manuilsky was fortifying his attack with quotations taken word for word from the report Jane had handed to me.

Her document was given to me around Christmas of 1945 at the home of Alfred and Martha Stern, wealthy "angels" of Communist causes and financiers of business fronts for Soviet spy activities.

(Mr. and Mrs. Stern and the Zlatovskis recently were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to commit espionage. The Sterns, who were living in Mexico when indicted, renounced their U.S. citizenship and went to Russia. The Zlatovskis live in France, which has declined to extradite them to the U.S. for trial.)

Anxious To Serve

Jane was recruited for our ring by her old friend and drinking companion, Martha, and she was prepared to prove how anxious she was to serve when I arrived.

No sooner had I entered the Sterns' apartment overlooking Central Park when Martha threw Jane into my arms, exclaiming:

"Here's a wonderful girl, Jack. She wants to do some work for you."

Running her index finger symbolically across her throat, Martha said: "I would stake my life on Jane. I have the utmost confidence in her."

Over the rounds of martinis, which she devoured like water, Jane outlined her philosophy of Marxism-Leninism, and how she and her husband, George, were prepared to go "to any lengths" to be "useful" to the Soviet Union.

Material For 'Friends'

She told me how she had worked for the OSS in Indonesia while married to a Netherlands envoy. With this remark, she reached over for her handbag and extracted a white envelope with about a half dozen sheets of closely typed material. Jane explained that my "friends" might find the material useful.

The next day, I met "the Professor," a Russian courier by the name of Stephan Choundenko, and turned over Jane's report.

A few days later, Choundenko letf the country. At our last rendezvous, on the street near my home, he had one final parting instruction for me:

"Engage in no activities during 1946, and await your final citizenship papers. Then, report to Moscow for your next mission."

Soon after I was naturalized in 1947 I moved alone to Paris.

In September of that year, I opened my door at the Hotel Racine in response to a gentle tapping. Jane was standing there, smiling.

"Comrade," she greeted me, with a hug and a kiss. "Can I be of some service?"

Keith County Gets $10,605 Check For Forfeit Of Bond

OGALLALA, Neb. (AP) — Keith County has received a check for $10,605 from the Summit Fidelity and Surety Company of Akron, O., in payment of a bond forfeited by George Emerson Hart, charged with first degree arson here.

Hart, 58, failed to appear for trial in District Court last Oct. 29, and District Judge I. J. Nisley of North Platte declared the bond forfeited. The bonding firm took the case to the state Supreme Court.

The charge against Hart accused him of starting the fire that extensively damaged the Tastee Freeze building here Sept. 26, 1955. Hart was extradited from South Dakota and was released on $10,000 bond.

The total received by the county includes interest.

The chickens grow plump and the peas sweet 'n' tender out here where the sun shines. Fairmont picks out the tender young chickens, the sweetest, juiciest green peas, and blends them together in a smooth, savory gravy. It's quick-frozen, so you just pop it in the oven, ma'am. Wait 'til it browns, then dig in. Fairmont Chicken Pie is real fancy eatin'!

ROCKET FIRM SAYS U.S. SATELLITE WILL GO UP DEC. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists grooming a U. S. satellite for its flight into space were reported Wednesday night to be about ready to ask for a launching date at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

A spokesman for a West Coast rocket firm said the firm has been notified that the first test satellite, a sphere 6.4 inches in diameter, would go up Dec. 1, but the Navy said no exact date has been set.

The Navy is in charge of Project Vanguard, the original U. S. satellite program.

'Pretty Close'

While no date was mentioned, a Vanguard spokesman said the project's scientists are "now pretty close" to the time when they will request that the launching pad at Cape Canaveral be cleared for the firing of a satellite vehicle.

The Dec. 1 date was given by a spokesman for the Grand Central Rocket Co. of Mentone, Calif. The firm is making the third-stage rocket for the Vanguard project, the rocket that will give the satellite its final boost into space.

Last week the Army was directed to join the effort and prepare to put a satellite into orbit with its modified Jupiter-C missile. A Vanguard spokesman expressed confidence that Vanguard's baby moon would be launched before the first Army firing.

To Broadcast Indefinitely

When the Vanguard satellite does go up, it was disclosed, it will carry a radio that should be able to broadcast indefinitely.

John T. Mengel, head of Vanguard's guidance and tracking branch, said that in addition to conventional batteries the sphere would have a solar-powered transmitter.

Mengel also told newsmen that the plan to broadcast on a 108 megacycle band would permit tracing 15 times as accurate as was possible with the two Soviet Sputniks, which operated on 20 and 40 megacycle bands.

How Nose Cone Got Back

CINCINNATI (AP) — Col. J. H. Swenson of the Office of Guided Missiles, Washington, disclosed the phenomenal intricacies of the first man-made meteor ever recovered after having been shot into outer space.

President Eisenhower displayed the meteor several nights ago in a nation-wide telecast. The meteor is the nose cone of a Jupiter-C missile.

The problem, Col. Swenson said, was not in getting the missile into the trajectory that would assure its return to earth, but recovering it after it landed.

The meteor went through 12 stages that made recovery possible, Col. Swenson said. A parachute ejected from it while it was "so hot it glowed like a second-order star" slowed the nose cone down at 5,000 feet, keeping it from burning up, he said.

The parachute was followed by a balloon shot above it to keep the meteor from sinking when it hit the water below.

As it neared the water, a series of small bombs were discharged from the meteor, followed by radio beams, flashes of light and release of a shark repellent, all geared to identify its location to a Navy task force and make recovery possible.

Frogmen dipped into the water among biting sharks, the colonel added.

Satellite For Christmas

WASHINGTON (INS) — A leading space scientist proposed that the U. S. launch a luminous "Christmas" satellite next month to glow brightly around the globe "as a symbol of hope and peace."

Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland suggested that the U. S. delay launching an instrument-equipped satellite long enough to put up the special "baby moon" during the holiday season.

Singer told a Washington Rotary Club luncheon that the satellite itself could be built at a cost of about $2,000 while the rocket to launch it would cost less than one million dollars.

He said the idea originally was made, as far as he knew, by a Bakersville, N.C., newspaper, the Toe Valley View, in an editorial last Oct. 31.

The editorial was written by publisher John McConnell who was in Washington Tuesday trying to get his idea to the President.

Wayne Sohl Leads Gas Distribution Engineers Panel

Wayne Sohl of Lincoln was moderator of a panel discussion at a Wednesday conference of gas distribution engineers, corrosion engineers and maintenance and operating men.

Al Schmidt of Huron, S.D., was elected conference chairman, succeeding L. E. Dade of Lincoln.

Taking part in the panel discussion at the Lincoln meeting were Ted Burgess of Omaha, Oliver Peden of Cozad, C. T. Williams of Sioux City and Leonard Hill of Hastings.

Operating safety was the theme of the conference attended by about 100 persons from 10 gas utilities in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota.

Speakers included S. A. Springer of Beatrice, Dick Williams of Omaha, Helmer Hovick of Sioux Falls, S.D., and F. H. Lutjen of Sioux City.

Rites Saturday For Harry C. Marshall

Funeral services for Harry C. Marshall, 88, of 2244 So. 13th, who died Wednesday will be held 10 a.m. Saturday at Roper & Sons with the Rev. Donald Roker officiating.

Burial will be at Lincoln Memorial Park.

Mr. Marshall was a retired farmer who was born at Terre Haute, Ind., and had spent most of his life in Nebraska. He worked for 10 years at the State Reformatory.

He was a member of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Iva M. Park and Mrs. Gladys B. Jackson, both of Lincoln; two sons, Lloyd of Cottonwood, Ariz., and Vancil L. of Falls City and six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Rev. White To Lead Anniversary Year Nazarene Services

The Rev. J. H. White, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene in Lincoln, is one of 100 Nazarene pastors in metropolitan areas appointed as chairmen for special events to be held during 1958, golden anniversary years of the denomination.

First event of the year-long celebration will be "watch night" services in Nazarene churches around the world on Dec. 31.

Annexation Plan OKd

OMAHA (AP)—The Omaha City Council voted to annex a 306-acre area that will bring about 2,800 residents of East Omaha into the city. The annexation was initiated by a petition signed by about 800 residents.

Strike Called

PARIS (AP) — France's largest labor union, the Communist-controlled General Confederation of Labor (CGT), called for a nationwide work stoppage Nov. 15 to demonstrate for peace in Algeria. A strike threat in October fizzled.

Auditorium Operating Costs Top Income By $22,853

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Operating costs of Pershing Municipal Aiditorium were $22,853.83 more than income during the 10-month fiscal period ended Aug. 31.

But Mayor Bennett S. Martin termed the overall financial picture as a "break-even" proposition, when non-recurring expenses are considered.

An independent audit showed expenses of $90,313.11 as against income of $67,459.28, not including $50,000 transferred to the auditorium from the building fund.

As the auditorium did not open until March 10, the auditors note that expenses for 10 months are being offset by income for less than six months.

If non-recurring and pre-opening expenses are deducted from the $22,853.83 excess expenditures, the auditorium came within a few hundred dollars of breaking even, according to Manager Don Jewell.

His report showed pre-opening expenses of $10,655.50 and non-recurring equipment and inventory costs of $8,939.46. Also to be considered is about $3,000 in prepaid, but unearned, insurance premiums.

Mayor Martin said the auditorium advisory committee has done an "excellent job" and "particular credit" should go to Jewell.

Cash receipts from performances totalled $176,446.92, as against talent and direct expense disbursements of $127,601.77, for a net income of $48,845.15. Gross receipts from concessions were $18,-614.13, the auditor reported.

Expenses included concessions, $16,351.67; administrative costs, $25,597.65; admissions, $4,509.47, and maintenance costs, $43,854.23, or a total of $90,313.11, according to the audit.

Maintenance costs included $20,-436.32 in salaries, $9,844 for electricity, $2,847.84 for heat and $953.-06 for water.

Activities for the March 10 to Oct. 31 period included 49 events for 192 days, of which 99 days were for public ice skating. Only five of the 236 days were unassigned.

The other days were change-over dates or allowed for egress or ingress under contracts.

British Phone Costs Cut In Anti-Inflation Move

LONDON (AP)—Britain Wednesday cut the price of local and long distance calls in the state-run telephone service effective Jan. 1.

This is the fourth anti-inflation move in Britain this week.

Prices of gasoline and kerosene were reduced by fractions of a cent per gallon. Bakers said they will hold the price line on bread despite operating cost rises.

Under the new charge schedule, most calls now costing 6 pence, 9 pence, or a shilling (7, 10½ and 14 U.S. cents) will be reduced to 3 pence (3½ U.S. cents).

$2.5 Million Sewer Bonds Go For Interest Of 3.967

Lincoln's $2.5 million sanitary sewer bond issue went for an interest rate of 3.967 per cent Wednesday as seven bids were opened at City Hall.

The City Council, in special session, accepted the low bid of Solomon Bros. & Hultzer of New York City, and associates.

The $2.5 revenue bond issue, maturing over a 30-year period, was bid at a net interest cost of $1,-831,550.

Unsuccessful bids ranged upwards to 4.2681 per cent of interest costs of $1,970.840. The low bid represented a saving of $140,000 in interest costs to the city.

Only the Solomon Bros. bid came in under the 4 per cent barrier anticipated by city officials and bond advisors.

Low Bid 'Excellent'

The low bid on Lincoln's revenue bond issue was termed "excellent" by a bond advisor, who noted that water revenue bonds of a city similar in size to Lincoln went for 4.25 per cent.

Mayor Bennett Martin, obviously pleased with bidding results and interest shown in the bond issue, said the sewer bond rate was indicative of Lincoln's excellent financial condition.

The $2.5 million issue is expected to finance a minimum of six of the largest projects planned under a $3.5 million sewer improvement program.

Bids Accepted

Bids on three projects totalling $1,224,996, received earlier and informally approved, were officially accepted Wednesday by the city.

They were Douglas Construction Co., Topeka, Kan., $483,634 on the Salt-Creek-Beal's Slough section; Dobson-Robinson Construction Co., Lincoln, $378,415.26 on Antelope Creek section, and Chambers Construction Co., Lincoln, $362,946.24 on Dead Man's Run section.

Fifteen projects in all will be financed under the $3.5 million bond program. It is expected that the remaining $1 million in sanitary sewerage revenue bonds will be issued within the next two years.

The revenue bonds will be paid from the 50 per cent sewer use fee which went into effect earlier this year, and are not a general obligation against the city.

W. Germany Offers Syria Economic Aid

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — West Germany Wednesday offered Syria broad commercial, financial and technical co-operation in the first challenge by a western nation to Soviet economic penetration.

A government-supported delegation of West German businessmen made the proposal at meetings with President Shukri Kuwatly, Premier Sabri Assali and other Syrian officials.

Dr. Guenther Schlicht, president of the board of directors of the Deutscher Lander bank, announced the offer. He is head of the West German delegation.

Schlciht told reporters the Bonn government authorized him to extend new assurance to Syria that West Germany would not establish diplomatic relations with Israel.

Repeated Warning

Syria, the most sensitive Arab country on this point, has repeatedly warned Bonn against diplomatic relations with Israel lest Arab countries recognize East Germany in return.

A spokesman for the delegation said the Deutscher Lander bank is prepared to extend long-term, low interest loans for industrial and other development projects.

West Germany offered to buy 150,000 tons of Syrian wheat this year.

West German capital for joint Syrian-German firms, stepping up oil exploration and the widest economic, commercial and technical exchanges were suggested.

The Soviet Union recently signed a 7-year economic co-operation agreement with Syria worth 572 million dollars.

Whether Syria will accept the German offer remains to be seen.

German Red Light District Off Limits Ban Is Modified

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany (AP)—A U.S. Army order placing Kaiserslautern's red light district off limits was modified Wednesday at the request of German city officials.

Soldiers now are permitted to enter Steinstrasse and adjoining streets between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The original ban was issued last September after an emergency association of Steinstrasse residents complained the street was too rowdy because of the Americans.

Bar owners and shop keepers complained their business was being ruined. Some even sued the city for damages and city officials asked the Army to relax its order.

75-Cent Holdup Nets Knife Bandit 15-Year Sentence

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A 75-cent holdup is sending a 22-year-old knife-wielding bandit to prison for 15 years.

That was sentence given Odrie L. Mercer by Circuit Judge Ben Terte. Mercer, an ex-convict pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree robbery. His victim was a 17-year-old youth, whom he stabbed in the chest. The robbery netted 75 cents.

"I didn't keep any of it," Mercer said about the money. "I just get my kicks out of robbing people."

Around The Town

IT'S FUN news we have this morning and it covers rather a wide span of time—all the way from now to Thanksgiving—and beyond.

We've been wondering who would be coming, or going, for the Thanksgiving week-end, and we found that homecoming plans for the holiday still are a little vague. We were more successful as to travelers—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, for instance, plan to spend Thanksgiving in Cleveland, O., the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, Jr. Following their stay in Cleveland Mr. and Mrs. Woods will go on to New York City where they will spend a few days before returning home.

* * *

WE'RE still calling the roll on some of our young career women—Jan Orwig, Sue Jouvenat and this one and that one. Miss Orwig, who is on the Denver Public Schools faculty, will not be home for the holiday, and Miss Jouvenat, who also is teaching—but in Evanston—has not completed her plans.

* * *

SO much for Thanksgiving at the moment and back to the current week. We hear that Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tinstman will be a host and hostess at their home on Saturday evening when they entertain the members of their dinner club. The eightsome, which also includes Mr. and Mrs. James Evinger, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chapin, III, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cochrane, will devote the after-dinner hours to bridge.

* * *

THERE'S to be a 100 Dancing Club committee meeting next Monday evening at the home of the chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dort. The final details for the dinner dance, to be held on Nov. 30 at Hotel Cornhusker, will be discussed. Serving on the committee with Mr. and Mrs. Dort are Mr. and Mrs. Lester M. Buckley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barney, Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerman, Dr. and Mrs. LaVerne Pfeifer, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Swanson and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kosman.

* * *

THE week-end of Nov. 23 is to be a busy one—It's Oklahoma game week-end and strange as it may seem there are numerous plans in spite of an inevitable outcome.

Anyway, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Volz are coming from Denver to attend the game and will be the guests of Dr. Volz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Volz. On Sunday Dr. and Mrs. Volz (Annie Lou Haried of Omaha) and Mr. and Mrs. Volz will go to Omaha to attend a party.

* * *

THEN WE learned that a variety of plans have been made for post-game activity—In one of the no host groups at the Lincoln Country Club's dinner dance on Nov. 23, will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hyland, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Liggett, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Magee, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wiedman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chapin, III, and Mr. and Mrs. James Critchfield. Also included in the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hamilton (Rachel Lock) who recently have come to Lincoln to reside, and who will be the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hyland and Mr. and Mrs. Chapin.

ON THE list of recent arrivals in the nursery set is W. A. Bunten III, who was born Wednesday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. W. Andrew Bunten, Jr. of Cheyenne, Wyo. His mother is the former Mimi DuTeau, Kappa Kappa Gamma at the University of Nebraska. The new Sigma Nu legacy also has a sister, Connie. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth DuTeau of Lincoln and Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Bunten of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Marriage Solemnized

MRS. GLENN BENDER

At an 8 o'clock evening service on Friday, Oct. 4, Miss Nora Belle Holman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Holman, became the bride of Glenn Bender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bender. The wedding took place at the Church of Christ in Cadiz, Ky., and the lines of the ceremony were read by the Rev. Mr. Isom.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Reynolds of Hopkinsville, Ky.

The bride appeared in a gown of white lace fashioned in the after-five length. Shallow scallops edged the rounded neckline of the short-sleeved bodice, and below the midriff of tucked chiffon, the skirt flared into hemline width. Her illusion veil was held by a halo brim of pearl-embroidered lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Bender will reside in Hopkinsville, Ky., where the bridegroom is stationed with the Army at Ft. Campbell.

Sigma Kappa Alumnae Meet

Alumnae of Sigma Kappa sorority will meet at the home of Mrs. W. J. Misko, 1960 So. 53rd, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening to complete plans for a bridge benefit to be held on Dec. 28.

The group also will wrap gifts and make tray favors for the patients of a local nursing home. Aiding the home's patients is the club project for the yar.

All alumnae living in Lincoln are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Al Antes and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jacobs are arriving today from Scottsbluff to spend the game week-end as the guests of Mrs. B. H. Gillespie.

★

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Opper of Denver are the parents of a daughter, Nancy Joy, who was born on Tuesday, Nov. 12. Mrs. Opper, the former Myrna Joy Giebelhaus, attended Nebraska Wesleyan University, and Mr. Opper is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Opper and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Giebelhaus, all of Lincoln.

★

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Stanley Abrahamson, the former Rose Marie Hruza, of Pruim, Germany, are announcing the birth of their daughter, Pamela Kay, who arrived on Saturday, Oct. 26. Pamela's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hruza of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Abrahamson of Los Angeles, Calif.

Fashion On The Campus

The University of Nebraska campus has gone formal—at least such was the case for one evening. On Tuesday night the members of Mortar Board, honor society for senior women, sponsored a fashion show in the ballroom of Student Union with the attractive models showing the very latest in formal and after-five attire. We might add that the masculine element participating in the show did themselves proud in the newest of dinner jackets—black ties—and now and then a cummerbund.

In the picture we find Miss Marlene Kuhlman, Delta Gamma, on the run-way, and on the stage are Miss Linda Beal (left) Pi Beta Phi, and Miss Connie Hurst, Gamma Phi Beta.

Co-chairmen of the event were Miss Charlene Ferguson, Alpha Chi Omega, and Miss Sue Hinkle.

Altrusa Club To Entertain

The Altrusa Club of Lincoln will entertain members of Lincoln women's service clubs at a dinner and program Monday evening at the University Club.

Following the 6 o'clock dinner, Russell Bailey of Omaha, from the state Federal Housing Administration, will address the group on "Co-operative Housing for the Senior Citizen".

The program is sponsred by Altrusa Club's senior citizens study and project committee of which Mrs. Thelma Hodder is chairman. Committee members are Miss Marjorie Johnston, Dr. Janet Palmer, Miss Zora Tennant and Mrs. Francis Waters.

Club guests, who are asked to contact Mrs. Hodder, 3-2136, for reservations, include the members of Lincoln Axis Club, Lincoln B, PW Club, Delta Kappa Gamma, Soroptimist International, Zonta International, Quota Club and the Lincoln Retired Teachers.

SUBURBIA

We must admit we were very lucky this morning for our arrow never missed hitting the target for news. Our Eastborough friends have been busy what with all the parties, out-of-town guests and birthdays to be accounted for this week.

Introductions are in order this morning for another new family who recently moved into the Eastborough suburb. All settled in their home at 511 South Eldora Lane are Lt. and Mrs. John Reeder and their children, Mary Therese, age 3, and Kathleen Anne, who is five weeks old. The Reeder family, who hail from McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita, Kan., arrived in Lincoln about three weeks ago.

There are numerous bridge clubs in the suburb—One which met on Tuesday was the group entertained at the home of Mrs. Bob Hartsock who was hostess at a dessert luncheon before the afternoon bridge party. Included in the eightsome, in addition to the hostess, were Mrs. Joseph Ritter, Mrs. Robert Longman, Mrs. Jack Robson, Mrs. Merle Hahn, Mrs. Robert Bridges, Mrs. Ed Marty and Mrs. Harry Rust.

We heard that it was on Friday evening when two families gathered to celebrate the first birthday anniversary of Miss Sandra Abbott. The dinner party was given by Sandra's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Raymond Abbott, and also on hand for the festivities were the honoree's brother, Bruce, and Capt. and Mrs. Donald Houy and their son, Johnny.

Turning now to our guest list we hear that Mrs. Harold Nickel of Alvo is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson and their son, James Lee.

And back to birthdays, we understand that Mrs. Richard L. Beem was honored on Friday evening in celebration of her Saturday, Nov. 9, birthday anniversary. Dinner and bridge were on the agenda for the evening's festivities and the guests included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frey.

Arriving in the community on Friday was Mrs. V. Blevins of Oak Harbor, Wash., who is a guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Skillings and their children, Linda and David.

There was a gala event on Sunday evening at the home of Lt. and Mrs. Limeon Otto who were host and hostess at a potluck supper and bridge party. Their guests for the evening were Capt. and Mrs. Paul Blinkinsop, Lt. and Mrs. Rodney Miller and Lt. and Mrs. Porter Wilkinson.

Just heard that Mr. and Mrs. Forest Eno had recent visitors in their home who were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Holm. Mr. and Mrs. Holm, who reside in Des Moines, Ia., were week-end guests of Mrs. Holm's parents.

Understand that Mr. and Mrs. Rene Dupouy of Montrose, Minn., arrived in the Eastborough suburb last Saturday to spend several weeks as the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. Com. and Mrs. Marvin Skappel and their three daughters. The guests will return home at the end of the month.

Had Autumn Ceremony

MRS. FRANKLIN JOE PAVEL

All-white chrysanthemums decorated the chancel of Grace Methodist Church at Crete on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 20, for the wedding of Miss Irma Valerie Pomajzl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pomajzl, and Franklin Joe Pavel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pavel, all of Crete.

Wearing identically-styled frocks of pink satin designed with full, waltz-length skirts were Mrs. Stanton J. Loibl of Lincoln, sister of the bridegroom, as the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Linda Steiner and Miss Nadean Kruse. The attendants wore wide-brimmed hats of the satin and carried pink satin muffs clustered with white feathered carnations. Miss Cynthia Loibl was the flower girl, and the ringbearer was William Lynn Boller of Dorchester.

Jerald Pomajzl, brother of the bride, served Mr. Pavel as best man, and seating the guests were Leland Pavel, brother of the bridesgroom, and Stanton J. Loibl.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The high, squared neckline of the long-sleeved bodice of lace was jeweled with tiny pearls and sequins, and the width of the lace skirt was emphasized at the back by cascades of lace and tulle tiers ending in a whisper train.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Pavel are living at 506 So. 10th in Lincoln.

Terry Claims Tax Return 'Ridiculous'

. . . Local Firestone Stores Mentioned

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, chairman of the Tax Investigation Committee, Tuesday termed the tax return of the Lincoln Firestone Stores as "absolutely ridiculous."

The statement was made at a hearing before the committee where the Lincoln manager of the firm had been asked to explain the company's method of filing tax returns.

Manager Raymond Stevens told the committee he was responsible for filing the returns, but had no knowledge of the actual value of the company's inventory.

Here Short Time

Stevens explained that he had been transferred to Lincoln February 1 of this year, and filed a state tax return for the Lincoln store shortly thereafter.

He said he was not completely familiar with Nebraska's taxing procedures at that time, and was advised by his superiors in Omaha to get aid from Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis.

He said he told Davis he thought the store's physical inventory was probably about the same as had been carried the previous year and thus reported it a that level, $22,-200.

Carpenter questioned whether the inventory might not be higher than that, but Stevens repeatedly answered that Firestone's Kansas City office handled the actual pricing of the inventories.

Open Accounts Questioned

Carpenter questioned the company's tax return in regard to open accounts and cited the $2,200 reported in that category.

Stevens said the company's open accounts, including budget accounts, were closer to $50,000.

The Scottsbluff senator then told Stevens the committee "has no desire to prosecute you. We only want to bring to the Legislature a report of what has been going on and see what we can do about it."

Carpenter added, "We're not picking on Firestone, they're no exception, it's the general rule."

The chairman said he wanted to "alert" Stevens that this committee "will still be in effect" next March 1 (assessment date), and said if the "same things happen again" the committee will not be as tolerant.

He suggested that Stevens let somebody else sign the next tax return if he had no knowledge of what the company's inventory really was. "There's no use in your being the guinea pig for somebody else," he stated.

Testimony Similar

Keith Johnston, manager of the Lincoln Firestone Retread Shop, testified along the same lines as Stevens.

When questioned as to the reason for such a low tax return figure for the Firestone operations, Lancaster County Assessor Davis said his office was not equipped to handle business assessments.

Carpenter complimented Davis as being "way above the average assessor," and said he realized the assessor's office suffered from "lack of time, money and personnel to do the things you know should be done and want to do."

Asked what the committee could recommend to the Legislature to answer some of these problems, Davis suggested that the appointment of properly qualified deputy assessors might ease the overall assessing problem.

The Tax Investigating Committee is scheduled to hear representatives of lumber firms Thursday morning and pipeline company representatives Thursday afternoon.

Rezoning Deferred

Matter To Get Additional Study

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The City Planning Commission deferred a 48th and Adams rezoning matter Wednesday for restudy.

Two corners are presently occupied by filling stations, and Don P. Harrington and others have asked that the northwest corner also be rezoned for local business.

The general area is presently zoned for two-family residences with the exception of the south corners of the intersection.

City Planning Engineer Douglas Brogden said the two north corners should also be rezoned in view of the situation though local business zoning was generally objectionable for the 48th and Adams intersection.

To be restudied under the Commission's directive is the possibility of rolling back local business zoning on 48th from Adams to Cleveland.

Termed Objectionable

Further business development of the intersection was termed objectionable because of the traffic situation and nearness to a school, the Commission was told.

The Commission by a 3-2 vote recommended denial of a use permit for construction of a one-story building on the northwest corner of 30th and N, now zoned for four-family dwellings.

The building would be used for offices and meeting rooms of the Carpenter's Union, according to A. O. Boettcher.

Adjacent property owners had objected to the permit.

Further Action

In other action, the Commission recommended:

1. Approval of M. S. Mason's application for commercial zoning of a lot on 27th between Y and Apple. It was noted that two-thirds of the lot already was zoned commercial.

2. Denial of the application of H. L. Sullivan for local business zoning on the northwest corner of 35th and X, now zoned single family dwelling.

3. Denial of Clarence E. Meyer's application to operate a nursing home for three persons on the northwest corner of Valley Road and 48th, or 956 So. 38th. A nursing home in a single family area and across from a junior high school was termed not desireable.

4. Approval of a special permit to Campbell's Nurseries for an addition to their buildings at 2342 So. 40th.

5. Final approval of Marilynn Manor subdivision near St. Thomas Orphanage at 4001 So. 27th.

Airliner Search Still Fruitless

HONOLULU (INS)—A high-placed Navy official said Wednesday the fate of 44 persons who vanished with a Pan-American stratocruiser in the mid-Pacific "is in the hands of Providence, but there is still a good chance for their survival."

The statement was made by Rear Adm. Neil K. Dietrich, commander of the Hawaiian Sea Frontier, as planes and ships pressed through a fifth day of a vast search for the men, women and children who were aboard the missing clipper.

The admiral insisted that there was still hope that the 36 passengers and eight crew members may have clambered into liferafts when—and if—the plane ditched in the ocean.

Cleanup Announced

KEARNEY, Neb.—The annual fall city-wide cleanup will get under way next Monday, according to C. O. Lewis, city sanitarian. The work is expected to take from 10 days to two weeks.

Machen Batters Jackson

Hurricane's Manager Stops Fight In 10th

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Undefeated Eddie Machen knocked down Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson in the first round of the heavyweight fight Wednesday night and punched him so soundly Jackson's manager asked the fight be stopped after the 10th round.

With Hurricane's right eye closed, his manager Lippe Bridebart call the referee into the corner and said:

"I recommend that the fight be stopped."

The verdict went as a technical knockout for Machen in the 10th—the same stanza in which champion Floyd Patterson stopped the Hurricane July 29.

Jackson of St. Albans, N.Y., held a six-pound weight advantage at 201 to 195, but that was the only advantage showed over the Redding, Calif., battler who racked up his 24th straight victory in the scheduled 12-rounder.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 in San Francisco's huge Cow Palace alternately cheered and booed as the hand of Machen, No. 1 ranking heavyweight challenger, was raised in victory in this nationally-televised fight.

Jackson had been stopped on technical knockouts twice before in 36 bouts but never has taken a full count.

Jackson

Machen came out fighting, in the opening round. A left and right hand smash to the head sent Tommy down and he leaned on the ropes as Referee Carter reached a count of five.

Tommy got to his feet and stayed there as Machen scored almost at will and piled up points in a fashion reminiscent of the beating Patterson gave Jackson.

Tommy staggered and winced repeatedly but the heavier hitting Machen couldn't put him down for keeps. The New Yorker suffered a bruise and a slight cut under his right eye in the fourth round and that proved to be his eventual undoing.

Machen, driving to show the television audience he deserves a title fight, connected throughout with a barrage of lefts to the body and head.

SOUTHEAST REPLACES KEARNEY IN CLASS AA CAGE BRACKET

By AL BEEBE
Star Sports Staff Writer

Lincoln Southeast, on the basis of enrollment, has moved up a notch to Class AA in basketball this year, the Nebraska School Activities Assn. announced Wednesday in a list of teams in each class and district for this year.

Southeast replaces Kearney as one of the state's 16 largest schools, making up Class AA.

As in the past, there are again six classes. The top 16 are AA, the next 32 are Class A, 64 in Class B, and 128 in both C and D. Class E is composed of the remainder of the schools, numbering 119.

A change has been made this year, however, in the selection of tournament director and the sites of each district tournament. In the past, the NSAA has named both the director and the location.

This year, the NSAA has named a district chairman, whose duty it will be to call a meeting of district schools, the members then selecting both a tournament director and the tournament site.

List Of Chairmen, Teams On Page 22

Each district tournament director and location must be named by Dec. 10. The district chairman calls only the first organizational meeting, the duties for any additional meetings falling to the selected tourney director.

Southeast is in District 1AA, along with Lincoln High, Lincoln Northeast, and Beatrice.

Lincoln Pius X is in District 1A, and Lincoln University High in District 1B.

The largest school in the state, according to enrollment of boys only, is Omaha South with 1301 boys. And the smallest is Ragan with only six.

Beatrice is the smallest AA school with 364, while Omaha Westside is next, and the biggest Class A school, with 359. Ainsworth at 131 is the smallest Class A.

Auburn is the biggest in Class B (129) with Omaha Sacred Heart, Randolph, Valley and Wymore the smallest at 71 each. Humboldt and Oakland each have 70 to top Class C, while 11 schools with 36 are at the bottom of the list.

Dalton, Hyannis, Kenesaw and Lewiston are the biggest Class D schools, and eight schools of 21 boys each are the smallest.

The break between Class D and E leaves four schools with 21 boys, Holstein, Oconto, Marquette and Tobias, in Class E. The average enrollment for the past three years was considered in dividing the 12 schools with 21 between the two classes.

NWU Runners To Enter NAIA Meet

Nebraska Wesleyan University will enter a six-man cross country team in a two-way competition Saturday.

The Plainsman harriers, who finished second in Nebraska College Conference competition last week, will compete against all Nebraska comers in the District XI National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championships at Omaha.

Simultaneously, teams from western Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska colleges, will run in the Midwest AAU competition.

Wesleyan Coach Woody Greeno said he expects top performances from three of his thinclads—Arland Freiburg of Stanton, Terry Sapp of Lincoln and Ken Metzger of Longmont, Colo. Also running under the yellow and brown banner will be Tom Reader of Kimball, John Horner of Exeter and Ray Jensen of Weeping Water.

Boudreau Won't Be Re-Hired

CLEVELAND (INS) — Frank Lane, in his first official act as general manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced Wednesday he will not hire Lou Boudreau, former Tribe manage, as a coach.

Lane made the announcement after conferring with deposed general manager Hank Greenberg, who had proposed that Boudreau, fired last summer, by Kansas City, be brought back to Cleveland to act as a battling coach under new manager Bobby Bragan.

Lane said he had nothing but the highest respect for Boudreau as a man and a baseball figure, but that it was his decision not to employ him.

"I just don't believe in batting coaches," he said.

TINY TACKLE, SOONERS GET IKE'S PRAISE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower opened his speech here with an allusion to the University of Oklahoma football team which brought a rousing cheer from the capacity audience.

Eisenhower said he wished he could stay through Saturday to see Oklahoma play Notre Dame at Norman, adding "I understand you have a fair sort of a football team here."

Then he said, "No matter how good they were before, since this afternoon when they made my grandson a sort of honorary member it's a much better team."

Coach Bud Wilkinson and all members of the Sooner football team autographed a white football for the President's nine-year-old grandson, David Eisenhower.

With a note of pride typical of all grandfathers, the President said, "My grandson is the best 90-pound tackle in the country."

998 Team Game Not Good Enough

Hoesch Hardware team in the Cornhusker No. One League at Bowlmor Monday night had the dubious distinction of rolling one of the highest games of the year and still losing.

Hoesch rolled a 998 but lost to a 1027 by Condon Auto Electric.

Norm Duer and Jay Luse led Condon for the night, Duer turning in a 242 game and Luse a 616 series. Jerry McBride's 574 series topped Hoesch.

Other members of the Condon team are Max Levine, Walt Haas, and Harlan Hanstedt. Also on the Hoesch squad are Harold Brinkopf, Jerry Warner, Bud Stevenson, and Al Grosenbach.

SCOUTING COLORADO Buffs Ahead Of '56 Pace

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Last year the Colorado Buffaloes went to the Orange Bowl and defeated Clemson after finishing second to Oklahoma in the Big Seven race.

This year the Buffs haven't been as successful—they're 1-3 in the conference, tied with Nebraska—but the 1957 Colorado club is head and shoulders above its predecessor in the statistical department.

Check these figures:

Dal Ward's current team holds the following edges over last year's team—first downs, 164-148; net rushing, 2393-2521; net passing, 704-464; total offense, 3097-2985.

Nebraska hosts the Buffs at Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon when the two teams will try to take a step up in the loop standings. Game time is 2 p.m.

The Buffs will be spearheaded by halfback Bob Stransky who is second in the nation in rushing with 861 yards in 146 carries for a 5.9 average. Stransky has made just 415 yards less than the entire Nebraska team.

Buff Injury Chart

Colorado came away from the 20-0 win over Colorado State with no serious injuries. Fullback Gene Worden suffered a bruised knee, but hit his stride in midweek and will be ready for the Huskers. Tackle Wayne Starks unjointed his chronic shoulder for the 12th time, which is a career record.

Ward's Words

Buff Coach Dal Ward talking: "I didn't think we were very smart or smooth at Ft. Collins Saturday but at least that's better than we've done several times up there so I can't complain . . . Bill Mondt and Gene Worden were our two best men . . . Bob Stransky did another good job although he was under the weather with a cold. . . I think Boyd Dowler is as good a pass receiver as there is around. He made a couple of catches Saturday that were real sparklers."

CU Scouts NU

Buff assistant Ray Jenkins who scouted Nebraska against Iowa State talking: "Nebraska has good personnel but was playing in awful luck Saturday. They fumbled a couple of punts which Iowa State recovered for big gains and fumbled two or three times when they had good drives going. This is a big Nebraska team with good, solid linemen. It looked as though their biggest trouble is lack of breakaway speed in the backfield. . . If we play like we did against Colorado Aggies they'll beat us and I'm not saying that just for effect. . . Tackle Don Olson and Fullback Jerry Brown are real fine players. That Brown is a real bonecrusher and looked very good on defense as a linebacker."

Huskers Work Light

The Cornhuskers refrained from scrimmaging Wednesday afternoon, using the practice period to brush up on their offense.

Roger Brede and Mike Lee, both ends, are still nursing hurts and did not suit up. Guards Art Klein and LeRoy Zentic returned to duty.

Buffs Arrive Today

The 36-man Colorado team will arrive in Lincoln Thursday night and headquarter at the Lincoln Hotel. The Buffs will workout at Memorial Stadium Friday afternoon.

Hall Of Fame

Contributions for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame will be sought at halftime of the Colorado-Nebraska game Saturday.

It is part of a nationwide campaign in behalf of the group. Boy Scouts, under the supervision of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will distribute containers through the Stadium.

Two Nebraskans, Ed Weir and George Sauer, have been named to the gridiron Hall of Fame.

Speedy Swede To Run In U.S.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dan Waern, the only Swede who ever ran a mile in less than four minutes, has accepted an invitation to compete in the Compton, Calif., Relays on next June 6, the Swedish Track and Field Assn. announced.

Waern, 24, last summer was clocked in 3 minutes, 58.5 seconds for the mile at the Stockholm Olympic Stadium. The Compton race will be his only contest during his visit in the United States.

FREMONT RIPS BEATRICE 19-7

Lincoln Star Special

BEATRICE — Fremont finished out its 1957 football season by tripping Beatrice Wednesday afternoon 19-7.

Gary Worden scampered for two Fremont touchdowns on runs of 15 and 13 yards.

Fremont	0	7	0	12	—19
Beatrice	0	0	0	7	— 7

Fremont scoring: Touchdowns: Warden 2 (15, 13, runs); Tom Vitamvas (25, pass from Jack Nelton). PAT—Paul Jorgeson.

Beatrice scoring: Touchdowns: Lockewood (68, run). PAT—Lockewood.

Iowa-Ohio State Scrap Could Shuffle All-American Listings

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—If all principals are in good health, the Iowa-Ohio State showdown for the Big Ten football title Saturday may crystalize several All-America bids.

But a key player for each team, halfback Don Clark of Ohio State and Iowa tackle Alex Karras, a 1956 All-America, are limping this week. Both were injured in last Saturday's competition.

These two talented lads are top choices of the midwest board evaluating condidates for the AP's 1957 All-America.

But there are other players highly rated by the board who will be locking horns in this battle at Columbus, Ohio, for the Big Ten championship, and—in Ohio State's case—for a Rose Bowl trip.

Take Iowa's captain and left end, Jim Gibbons. This Hawkeye wingman has been a superlative performer on offensive, snaring 27 passes for 848 yards and 4 TDs this season. He grabbed 9 tosses for 164 yards and 2 TDs in Iowa's 44-20 triumph over Minnesota last Saturday. Gibbons also is a fine defensive player and an inspirational leader.

The Buckeyes would sorely miss halfback Clark, if his groin injury sidelines him much Saturday. The fleet Buckeye has scored 9 touchdowns and is far and away the Big Ten's best rusher with 515 yards on 87 carries.

But Ohio State has other All-America timber in Leo Brown, maybe the best "little" end in the country, guard Aurelius Thomas, and a gifted all-around quarterback, Frank Kremblas.

Korras, who injured a knee against Minnesota, is the king-pin of Iowa's tremendous line, but his 250-pound tackle running mate, Dick Klein, isn't far behind. The Midwest board this week also popped a few more Iowa names into the All-America hopper, quarterback Randy Duncan and half back Mike Hagler.

And three Ohio State sophomores got a first call from the board, including end Jim Houston, 232-pound guard Jim Marshall, and fullback-center Bob White.

Other Midwestern stars still strong in All-America contention include center Dan Currie and end Sam Williams of Michigan State, halfback Jim Pace of Michigan, and guard Al Ecuyer of Notre Dame.

The board also continues to list such other players as center Neil Habig of Purdue, halfback Walt Kowalczyk and tackle Pat Burke of Michigan State, end Rod Hanson and halfback Bob Mitchell of Illinois, end Earl Hill of Wisconsin, and quarterbaik Jim Van Pelt of Michigan.

Newcomers on the board's roster this week included Dave Kaiser and guard John Middleton of Michigan State, end Gary Prahst of Michigan, and fullbock Bob Blakley of Minnesota, who rammed through Iowa's touted line for 98 yards on 20 carries.

Volleyball Tourney Dates Set By Peru

PERU — The 12th annual Peru State College High School Girls Invitational Volleyball Tournament has been scheduled for March 10-11-12, according to Mrs. Frances Wheeler, director of women's physical education.

Last year's tourney attracted a record number of teams from southeast Nebraska, with the Broadwater High School team traveling more than 400 miles to compete. Douglas High School captured top honors in last year's event.

Soccer Fan Hits Ref, Given Liftime Ban

VIENNA (AP)—A Hungarian soccer fan Wednesday was ordered never to attend another game, the Budapest newspaper Esti Hiralp said, as punishment for striking a referee at a recent contest.

NON-BUM FANS HAVE BACKING

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sponsors of a proposed referendum of the deal to give the Los Angeles Dodgers 300 acres in Chevez Ravine for a baseball park said Wednesday they have more than enough signatures on petitions.

The petitions must be filed with the City Election Commission by 5 p.m. today. A total of 51,767 signatures is required to get the referendum on the ballot.

The Committee to Save Chavez Ravine for the People says it has more than the required number and plans a noontime ceremony of the filing today.

The city clerk's office will have 30 days after today to check the petitions to determine whether there are sufficient qualified voter signatures.

The petitions if valid could force a special election or the referendum could go on the next regular election ballot in June.

'57 Deer Season Set Many Records

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen Wednesday described the state's 1957 deer hunting season as a "fabulous success," with at least a dozen new deer hunting records established.

These were the new marks.

1. Largest number of rifle hunters—12,174 (8,198 in 1956).
2. Largest number of archers—658 (275 in 1956).
3. Largest number of deer taken by rifle hunters—7,875 (incomplete total), (6,571 in 1956).
4. Largest number of deer taken by archers—78 (28 in 1956).
5. Highest success percentage by archers—11.85 per cent (10 per cent in 1956).
6. Largest number of permits authorized—16,400 (9,600 in 1956).
7. Largest number of deer taken by all hunters—7,953 (incomplete total), (6,589 in 1956).
8. Largest open area for archers—all counties (only 21 counties and Bessey division of Nebraska National Forest in 1956).
9. Largest number of counties open to rifle hunters—32 (31 in 1956).
10. Largest mule deer—310 pounds hog-dressed (previous largest was 245 pounds, in 1952).
11. Largest white tail deer—289 pounds hog-dressed (previous largest was 235 pounds, in 1956).
12. Most years without a hunting fatality—10.

The record mule deer was taken by John Wilson of Ogallala. Benjamin Garcia of Gibbon shot the record white tail.

Rose Bowl Foes Will Swap Films

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All teams in contention for the Rose Bowl football game in the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences agreed Wednesday to exchange two game films instead of personal scouting.

The announcement, matching an agreement for the past two years, was made jointly from the offices of the two conference commissioners.

Representative teams in the post-season contest may receive films of any two regular season games, said Assistant PCC Commissioner Bernard Hammerbeck.

Nebraska City Jars Tecumseh

TECUMSEH—Nebraska City ran wild against Tecumseh Wednesday night, whipping the Indians 40-13.

Tecumseh limited the visitors to 14 points the first half but a 19-point fourth quarter put the victory away for the Pioneers.

Lincoln Gyms Open During Vacation

The Thanksgiving vacation public school recreation schedule has been announced.

All secondary gymnasiums will be open on Friday Nov. 29 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3:30 p.m., and on Saturday, Nov. 30 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Northwestern Coach Befuddled By Losses

CHICAGO (INS)—Ira Parseghian, Northwestern's spirited but "feeling down in the dumps" football coach, stood at the head of his class Wednesday in a long line of "losing" coaches.

Parseghian's Northwestern Wildcats have lost seven in a row and in all probability will lose their remaining two games (with Purdue and Illinois).

Parseghian is pretty upset over the situation.

He told the Chicago Football Writers Association that never in his life has he "felt so badly." He said:

"We've dropped seven games in a row and I don't think I ever have felt so badly over a situation in my whole life, I sort of feel like a salesman. Maybe the product is bad, and we're selling the wrong thing.

"But the job can be done at Northwestern, or else I wouldn't be here."

Parseghian said he was completely "puzzled" over the turn of events that took place at Evanston last Saturday. He added:

"We scored first against Wisconsin and the Badgers scored shortly before the end of the first half. We played great football for 30 minutes but then in the last 30 minutes, we played just the opposite."

Parseghian recalled that last Saturday "it certainly was a shame to walk into a locker room after the game and see about 12 grown men crying like babies. But they've come out to practice every day and worked hard. Their morale is good and they never give up. I'm sure their confidence has been shaken but it is not hopeless."

Parseghian said he finds himself in a "strange situation" because "I never have had a losing season." He said he was told that it would be tough to lose a lot of games but "they didn't tell me how bad it would be."

Scribe Tabs Notre Dame To Cut Sooners' String

By JOHN CLARY

NEW YORK (AP)— If you think A-bomb explodes in grand style then stick around for this Saturday's football games. Ground Zero is expected to be centered in Norman, Okla., with heavy fallout in Houston, East Lansing, Memphis and Columbus, Ohio.

This is the Saturday when Notre Dame meets Oklahoma and when the spots for most of the major bowl games are decided. In other words, this is the week end that will decide how happy New Year's Day will be for some coaches and how happy the new year will be for some others.

With all of this in mind, and with a crystal ball badly tarnished with "upset corrosion" from past Saturdays, the winners, it says here, shape up like this:

Notre Dame over Oklahoma — the Irish combine some fine horses and a fierce desire to stop the Sooners 47-game victory streak.

Texas A&M over Rice—The Aggies get their ticket to the Cotton Bowl over a stubborn Rice

Michigan State over Minnesota —The Spartans still have visions of a Rose Bowl trip and the Gophers should help keep them alive.

Iowa over Ohio State—The Hawkeyes defense to wreck Ohio State's Rose Bowl aspirations but not without a hectic struggle.

Tennessee over Mississippi—The Vols liked the Sugar Bowl last year and a victory here will send them back again.

Oregon over Southern California —The Webfeet need only one victory for a Rose Bowl bid and the Trojans can't stop them.

Princeton over Yale—The Tigers have the Bulldogs by the tail in this Ivy-covered battle.

Dartmouth over Cornell—The Indians can all but sew up the Ivy title as they end Cornell's recent victory "honeymoon".

Duke over Clemson—The Blue Devils need a vote of approval to meet Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl and a victory should nail it down.

FRIDAY

Miami, Fla., over Maryland.

SATURDAY

EAST—Columbia over Penn, Army over Tulane, Penn State over Holy Cross, Navy over George Washington, Boston College over Marquette, Syracuse over Colgate, Harvard over Brown.

SOUTH—Georgia Tech over Alabama, Auburn over Georgia, Mississippi State over Louisiana State, Virginia over South Carolina, West Virginia over Wake Forest, Virginia Military over The Citadel, Vanderbilt over Florida, North Carolina State over Virginia Tech, Mississippi Southern over Florida State, Kentucky over Xavier, Chattanooga over Furman, William & Mary over Rutgers.

MIDWEST—Michigan over Indiana, Illinois over Wisconsin, Missouri over Kansas State, Purdue over Northwestern, Kansas over Oklahoma State, Colorado over Nebraska, Houston over Wichita, Detroit over Quantico Marines, Iowa State over South Dakota, Cincinnati over Tulsa.

SOUTHWEST—Texas over Texas Christian, Arkansas over Southern Methodist, Texas Western over Arizona, Texas Tech over Hardin-Simmons, Arizona State over Montana State.

FAR WEST—Washington over California, Oregon State over Stanford, Washington State over Idaho, Denver over Utah State, Montana over Colorado State, New Mexico over Wyoming, Utah over Air Force Academy.

Dakota City, Red Willow In Big Brothers Bowl

HASTINGS—Red Willow, rated No. 2 in The Star's eight-man list, and Dakota City, rated sixth, have been signed to play in the Big Brothers Bowl here.

The game will be Friday night at the Hastings College field.

NCC PREXY SAYS IT'S OFFICIAL: KEARNEY HAS FORFEITED 3 TILTS

Official notice of the forfeiture of three football games by Kearney State Teachers because an ineligible player was used has been issued by D. M. Burkhiser, Chadron, president of the Nebraska College Conference.

In a letter dated Nov. 11 Mr. Burkhiser asked state college sportswriters to revise their standings and show Midland, Peru, and Doane each with an additional win, and Kearney with three additional losses.

He explained in his letter that "Kearney has the right to protest the Eligibility Committee's decision to the conference in regular meeting, and if the decision is reversed, then public announcement of the fact will be made, at that time. To continue to publish the standings as if the committee had ruled wrongly casts doubt upon their ability and authority to render decisions on eligibility."

The controversy over the forfeiture of the games has been pending since Oct. 14 when a protest was filed over the use by Kearney of Marvin Schleeman in conference football games. The conference eligibility committee ruled him ineligible in a unanimous ballot announced Nov. 1.

The revised conference standings are as follows:

Doane	5	2	0
Kearney	3	4	0
Wesleyan	2	4	0
Midland	1	4	1
Chadron	1	6	0
Wayne	0	6	1

Bobcats Named

PERU — Head football coach Al Wheeler has named a 31-man squad to travel to Greeley this week for the second of a two-game series between Colorado State and Peru State at Jackson Field, Greeley, Saturday. In last year's Oak Bowl meeting at Peru, the Wheelermen triumphed 13-0.

Oops! Karpovics Won

Walt Karpovics, up and coming Pentzer Park welterweight, made his boxing debut in fine style last Saturday night. He won.

But he was inadvertently listed as a loser to Omaha's Arkadur Wolodkewitsch in the Sunday Journal and Star. For the record, Karpovics decisioned Wolodkewitsch in the American Legion sponsored bouts.

New $500,000 Minden School Structure Dedicated

MINDEN, Neb. (AP)—Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb) declared Wednesday night the value of Minden's new elementary and junior high school building "will be determined by the extent to which it improves the education and the learning of our boys and girls."

In a dedicatory address for the new $500,000 building in his home town, Curtis said: "If this fine physical plant results in better teaching it will be of great value. Schools exist for the exclusive purpose of training our youth."

Supt. Jones

Sen. Curtis

Praises Teachers

"No title would be bestowed upon any citizen carrying greater honor than that of a 'genuinely good teacher,' " he said.

"Good teachers have taught the sons and daughters of the rich the importance of learning and service, if their lives were to count. Good teachers have opened the doors of opportunity for sons and daughters of the poor, and have made it possible for them to reach the heights in industry, agriculture, the professions and in government."

"A good teacher possesses a high privilege," he said. "Hers is the opportunity of having a part in the building of men and women, not only to equip them with knowledge but to mold their character."

Cites Jones' Record

Curtis noted that Minden Superintendent of Schools C. L. Jones has served in his post at Minden longer than any other superintendent in Nebraska.

The new building houses an elementary wing to the west, a gymnasium with a seating capacity of 2,000, and eight general classrooms in the east wing. Other facilities included in the new structure, are home economics room, science room, junior high library, kitchen and dining room, concessions room and teacher's lounge.

Pasture Feed Conditions Rate 89 Pct.

Range and pasture feed conditions in Nebraska as of Nov. 1 were rated at 89 per cent, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

The condition is six points better than the 10-year average and 21 points better than a year ago.

Grasses in general are cured and in good condition to enter winter, the division said. Soil moisture supplies are the best for many years, hay supplies are far above average and feed grain tonnage produced this year has topped all record.

Nebraska News

The average condition of Nebraska range cattle and calves on Nov. 1 was reported at 89 per cent, one point above the 10-year average and eight points above last year.

Some stockmen report calves weighing less than usual. In some instances early calves got a late start because grass was not available until late spring.

Shipments of stocker and feeder cattle into Nebraska during October topped the same month a year ago by 28 per cent.

MRS. WAGGONER

Death Claims 100-Year-Old

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at Alma for Mrs. Dora Waggoner, Holdrege centenarian who died here. Burial will be at Republican City.

Mrs. Waggoner was born in Ashland County, Ohio, in 1857 and came to Nebraska in 1874. She was married to William Waggoner, a farmer, who died in 1933. They made their home in the Naponee and Republican City areas. She had been confined to a wheel chair or her bed for the past 13 years.

Survivors include two daughters and four sons, Mrs. Vern Graff, Naponee, and Mrs. Daisy Druliner of Santa Monico, Calif.; Frank and Bud of Alma, Allen of McCook, and Judd of Fruitland, Idaho. Also surviving are 26 grandchildren, 61 great-grandchildren.

Harvest Delay Slows Hiring Of Workers

Hiring of seasonal farm workers for the Nebraska sorghum and corn harvest has been delayed by the crops' high moisture content, the state division of employment security reported Wednesday.

In its report for the week ending Nov. 9, 1957, the division said the potato harvest was practically complete, and the sugar beet harvest was nearing completion.

The division placed 223 workers on agricultural job openings during the week.

The department's farm report by areas follows:

Alliance: Sugar beet harvest continues with favorable harvest weather. Potato harvest activities were virtually completed. Labor demands for seasonal farm and ranch activities were decreasing. An increased demand was expected during the coming two-week period for ranch hands to be employed during the winter months.

Beatrice: Very little farm hiring activity.

Columbus: Shortage of one single farm hand needed on a job opening paying $135 per month. Farm hiring activity continued to be light.

Fremont: Corn picking and sorghum harvest very limited due to high moisture content. Demand remained high for well qualified farm workers.

Grand Island: Shortage of two married farm hands for job openings paying $160 to $175 per month.

Hastings: Very little milo harvest activities. Corn picking activities were on the increase.

Kearney: Shortage of two single farm hands and two corn pickers. Transportation difficulties seemed to be the reason for seasonal farm hands not being hired. Wet and cloudy weather persisted in central Nebraska to delay the fall harvest. Generally, the worker supply was beginning to catch up with the demand. Sugar beet harvest was 80 per cent completed in Buffalo County.

Lincoln: Very little farm hiring activity. Supply and demand was in balance.

McCook: Corn picking well under way with the moisture content rather high. Milo harvest was progressing with no heavy demand for extra labor. The storage of well qualified married farm hands for year-round work continued.

Nebraska City: Shortage of one single farm hand and one corn picker. Corn picker activities were increasing throughout the area. Milo harvest was progressing slowly.

Norfolk: Demand for workers exceeded supply. Farmers were beginning to hire seasonal tractor drivers for corn picking and sorghum combining but wet fields were slowing down the harvest. Shortage of three single farm hands, seven married hands and two tractor operators. Wage ranges offered were $125 to $135 plus board and room and laundry for single hands, $150 to $175 per month plus extras for married farm hands, and $1 per hour for tractor operators.

North Platte: Some milo being harvested where drying facilities are available. Little corn picking but sugar beet harvest 75 to 85 per cent completed.

Omaha: High moisture content has delayed corn, sorghum and soybean harvest.

Scottsbluff: Demand for farm workers is tapering off. Surplus of Indian laborers awaiting corn picking jobs continues in Scottsbluff valley.

Sidney: Farm hiring activity decreasing.

1st Vehicle Leasing Rules Are Adopted

. . . State RR Board Action

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Railway Commission has adopted its first set of proposed rules governing the leasing of motor vehicles by authorized carriers.

They are scheduled to go into effect Dec. 17, unless protests are filed showing good cause why they should not be adopted.

A hearing on the new rules has been set for 9:30 a.m., Dec. 16 at the Statehouse.

No Rules Formerly

John R. Thompson, chief of the Motor Transportation Division, said the Commission has had no established rules on the leasing of motor vehicle equipment except that carriers cannot operate or lease equipment without Commission approval.

Thompson said there are "indications" that leasing of equipment can be used as a "subterfuge" for an unauthorized person to operate for hire by reportedly leasing equipment to a person who has authority, but with the owner maintaining control.

This would not be possible under the rules proposed by the Commission.

The Rules

The proposed rules:

1. Term of the lease must be specified with certainty and shall not be for less than 30 days.

2. Possession and control of equipment must at all times be under the sole control and supervision of the lessee.

3. Operation of the equipment must at all times be under sole control and supervision of the lessee.

4. Liability and property damage coverage and cargo insurance (where applicable) must conform with Commission regulations.

5. Compensation shall be named and paid on a basis other than a percentage of the revenue. (Thompson said the compensation could be based on mileage, or an hourly or monthly basis for example.

Costs To Lessee

6. All operation and maintenance expenses shall be borne by the lessee.

7. The lessee shall be responsible for compliance with Nebraska laws and Commission rules and regulations.

8. Equipment shall not be used during the full period of the lease for any other purpose than the purpose expressed in the lease.

9. The lessee shall be responsible for all claims for damages or otherwise, arising out of the operation of said vehicle for hire during the full period of the lease.

Thompson said copies of the proposed rules will be sent to every state for their study prior to the Dec. 16 hearing.

Iowan Held In Slaying Of Wife, 24

IOWA CITY, Ia. (AP) — Marvin Glen Biggerstaff, 39, was charged with murder Wednesday in the fatal shooting of his 24-year-old wife, the mother of two children.

Mrs. Donna Belle Biggerstaff was shot during an argument with her husband in her apartment about 1 a.m. Wednesday. The shooting occurred less than 12 hours after the couple had failed in another reconciliation attempt at her attorney's office Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Biggerstaff had filed suit for divorce last Oct. 26. It was the third time she had started a divorce action in the couple's seven years of marriage.

Biggerstaff, a tractor operator at the city-owned sanitary land fill, was held without bond. Police Judge Roger H. Ivie set preliminary hearing for 11 a.m. Saturday.

Disturbance

Police were called to the Biggerstaff apartment after neighbors complained of a disturbance. Police Capt. Jerry Hall and Patrolman Charles Snyder said that before they could enter the apartment they heard a shot.

They forced the door and said they found Biggerstaff with a .22 caliber pistol in his hand. Mrs. Biggerstaff was slumped on the floor with a bullet wound in her abdomen, they said. She died about two hours later at an Iowa City hospital.

The couple's two sons, Marvin Willis, 6, and William Gene, 3, were in an adjoining bedroom when the shooting occurred. They were taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Jay Miller of Frytown.

Authorities said the Biggerstaffs had come to Iowa City about six years ago from Sioux City. He had been employed as a bartender at the Idle Hour and Silver Moon taverns there.

Ag Extensionists Will Participate In National Meet

Two members of the University of Nebraska's Agricultural Extension Service staff will take part in the National Outlook Conference Nov. 18-21 in Washington, D.C.

They are Mrs. Clara N. Leopold, home management specialist, and Everett E. Peterson, agricultural economist.

The conference is held annually for agricultural and home economics specialists to get background information on what to expect in business conditions and the agricultural outlook during the coming year.

Micek Bound Over In Homicide Case

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP) — Gerald F. Micek, 23, of Monroe was bound over to District Court by County Judge C. L. Stone Wednesday on a charge of motor vehicle homicide.

Micek was involved in a car-truck accident six miles west of Lindsay Nov. 7, in which John Drake, 43, of North Bend suffered fatal injuries.

Judge Stone set Micek's appearance bond at $1,000. Micek waived preliminary hearing and entered a plea of innocent to the charge.

Annual College Meet Is Sunday At Concordia

SEWARD, Neb.—Over 150 representatives of congregations of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod are expected to attend the annual meeting of the Concordia College Association on the campus of Concordia Teachers College at Seward Sunday night, according to Glenn Einspahr, executive secretary of the association.

The meeting will begin with a 6 p.m. dinner in Brommer Hall. Dr. Paul Zimmerman, Concordia's president, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Representatives of the association, which numbers 600 Lutheran congregations in Nebraska and six other states, will consider resolutions suggesting ways of promoting moral and financial support for the Seward college. Officers for the 1957-58 association year will also be announced.

Raymond Arndt of Columbus, president of the association, will preside at the business meeting following the dinner. The resolutions will be presented by Don Kolterman, secretary, and Treasurer Iddo Heinicke will give a summary of contributions received during the year. Both men are Seward residents.

Officers of the Board of Governors, in addition to those already named, are W. C. Wilken of Gordon, vice president, and Perry Miller of Lincoln, member-at-large.

U.S. To Launch Satellites That Will Transmit Signals Indefinitely

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Navy disclosed Wednesday that America is prepared to launch satellites that will transmit radio signals indefinitely and will be tracked 15 times more accurately than was possible with Russia's Sputniks.

At the same time, John T. Mengel, chief of the tracking section for Navy's "Project Vanguard," said it is now indicated that the Soviet's dog-carrying "moon" may stay up one or two years.

Mengel said the solar radio batteries in the Navy's satellite to be launched next month should last for "the life of the satellite," possibly a year or more.

He told a news conference that the frequency on which American satellites will broadcast their signals, 108 megacycles, makes possible tracking that is 15 times more accurate than for the Russian frequencies. The Sputniks transmitted on 20 and 40 megacycles, which he said are severely bent by the ionosphere.

The American expert, who is directing the operations of 10 U.S. tracking stations spread over the world, expressed doubt that the Russians have any similar system for precise electronic measurement of satellite orbits.

Mengel said he believes that the Russians are getting their most accurate information on the Sputniks from the U.S., and that the Soviet system relies on optical observation to determine the orbits.

The most recent tabulation of results from three U.S. stations that were converted to the Russians' 40-megacycle frequency, Mengel said, indicates that Sputnik II will stay up much longer than was previously expected.

America's first satellite will be equipped with both conventional and solar batteries. The solar type will operate when the made-in-America satellite is in sunlight, and the conventional will take over when the sky is dark. When the mercury batteries fail, in two or three weeks, the satellite will broadcast only half the time.

5 Satellites

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Russia may have five satellites orbiting the world—three from Sputnik I and two from Sputnik II—the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said.

Hundreds of sightings from moonwatch teams throughout the world were analyzed and found to produce three workable orbits from the first satellite launched Oct. 4. Since that time there have been a half dozen reliable sightings of a second object associated with Sputnik II launched Nov. 2 with a shaggy dog aboard.

Astrophysicists describe a satellite as anything that orbits by itself.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the observatory, declined to speculate whether the second object sighted with Sputnik II might possibly be a bungled attempt to plummet the container with the dog Laika to earth while still alive.

Backward

If the capsule with the dog had been detached from the rocket satellite it would itself become a satellite if it was not fired backward out of its original orbit with enough velocity to be drawn to earth by gravity.

The dog is presumed to have died about the same time the radio of the first animal carrying satellite failed last week.

Dr. Luigi Jacchia, Smithsonian astrophysicist, was credited with the mathematical calcuations that worked out three distinct orbits from a mass of optical and visual sightings on Sputnik I.

The Russians shortly after launching their first moon said there was a possibility that the nose cone of the rocket that shielded the 184-pound sphere of Sputnik might also be orbiting the world.

Aid Backed

PARIS (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said he will recommend continuation of the U. S. food relief program for Middle East refugees in the next fiscal year.

Benson, on the last leg of a fact-finding trip through Asia and Europe, said U. S. food supplies shipped to the Middle East "have been meeting the real need."

U.S. Navaho Missile Launched On Coast

. . . New Step In Speed-Up Effort

CAPA CANAVERAL, Fla (INS) — A Navaho aerodynamics missile was launched from the Cape Canaveral Test Range Wednesday, marking another step in this country's speeded-up effort to get an earth satellite into space.

Although the Navaho was scrapped as an operational missile last July its rocket engine parallels that of the Army's Jupiler C Missile, which the U.S. will utilize to launch its answer to Russia's Sputniks.

A Defense Department spokesman said the purpose of Wednesday's launching was to test the component parts of the Navaho's power plant.

The gleaming missile was sent aloft just minutes after President Eisenhower left Washington by air for Oklahoma City.

An aero-dynamics missile is radically different than a ballistics missile, such as the Jupiter. The latter can best be compared to a long range artillery shell while an aero-dynamics rocket is similar to a super-jet aircraft.

The Jupiter is an intermediate range weapon which can zero in on a target 1,500 miles distant.

It is regarded as one of the most refined vehicles in the nation's rocket arsenal and recently was assigned the job of carrying America's satellite, in place of the Navy's Vanguard.

Booster Used

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy used a rocket booster for the first time Wednesday to launch its new supersonic Regulus guided missile.

The 57-foot bombardment weapon designed to carry a nuclear warhead, made its rocket launched flight from Edwards Air Force Base, California. After completing an intricate series of aerial maneuvers, it was brought down for a safe landing on its tricycle landing gear.

The Regulus II, a successor to the slower and smaller Regulus I, now already operating in the fleet, was specifically designed for installation in the first nuclear powered missile submarine, Halibut, now under construction. Like the first version of this missile, which is essentially an unmanned jet powered bomber, the new weapon may also be used from larger surface vessels such as aircraft carriers.

The new Regulus has a range of more than 1,000 miles and can fly at a speed about twice that of sound.

'Progress'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor reported Wednesday the Army is making "encouraging progress" in the development of a weapon capable of knocking down Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

He spoke to a businessmen's conference which had just been told by Secretary of Commerce Weeks that in federal budget-making "the emphasis now is on less butter and more guns."

Taylor, the Army's chief of staff, said "it is entirely possible to develop an anti-missile defense for the United States at an acceptable cost and in a reasonable time frame."

Comfortable To End

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio said Soviet scientists are quite certain the dog sealed inside Sputnik II "was quite well and comfortable to the end."

The broadcast did not elaborate on this, but said data obtained by studying the dog's reactions are being studied.

"Some newspapers in the West have complained about the laconic nature of Soviet announcements on this subject," Moscow said. "However, the spirit of publicity-making is alien in Soviet science.

"Soviet scientists are reluctant to come out with any half baked conclusions or mere speculation."

The Soviet newspaper Pravda gave a long review of the Russian satellite program. It was accompanied by pictures and drawings that indicated no provision was made for catapulting the dog back to earth.

Architect Tells Of 'Modern Trends In City Planning'

Eldridge Lovelace, a landscape architect from St. Louis, Mo., was the guest speaker at the American Society of Civil Engineers meeting Wednesday evening.

Speaking of the "Modern Trends in City Planning," he warned of four adverse trends. He said, we should be careful not to become too technical, we should lead away instead of toward bureaucracy, we should avoid becoming compartmental in our planning and we should avoid leaning too far toward architecture and sociology from civil engineering.

Lovelace added, "It is necessary to look ahead and reserve land for future use as parks and other community projects."

No Medals

BONN (AP)—Parliament has ruled West German servicemen may wear ribbons but no medals. A leader said the old custom—such as iron crosses of Imperial Germany and swastikas under Hitler—would not make a good impression in Germany or abroad.

Mrs. Priest Says Thrift Required For U.S. Security

ST. LOUIS (INS) — The Treasurer of the United States government said Wednesday that "restoration of traditional American thrift is a requirement for maintaining our prosperity and our national security."

Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, speaking at Washington University in St. Louis said that efforts by the administration to halt inflation had only "slowed it down."

Mrs. Priest charged that "our unprecedented spending, with our willingness to go deeper and deeper into debt, reflects of course our confidence in the future, but it is a great and present danger to our economic stability and security."

Studies Underway That May Lead To Big Increase In Research Spending

. . . New Pentagon Policy Statement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said Wednesday studies are underway that may lead to a big increase in its spending for basic scientific research.

Spokesmen for the department's research and engineering branches disclosed this as they made public a new statement of Pentagon policy. It emphasizes the importance of research on the frontiers of science, even though military application of the findings might come much later.

President Eisenhower told the nation Wednesday night, in a radio-TV speech from Oklahoma City that there must be an increase in basic research in the light of Soviet achievements with satellites and missiles.

Dr. Orr E. Reynolds, director of science in the office of the assistant secretary of defense for research and engineering, said the present Defense Department budget contains only 80 to 90 million dollars for basic research. The figure has been about the same annually since 1951, he said.

Greater Sums

Reynolds said he would hope that the studies now being made by advisory committees representing the various sciences would show that greater sums could usefully be spent on basic research. He declined to estimate the possible increase, but said he doubts that in any case it would represent more than a doubling of the present figure.

Pentagon spending for research of all types, including basic research, will be about $5,300,000,000 in the fiscal year that began July 1.

George D. Lukes, secretary of the research and engineering policy council in the department, said the new directive on basis research should strengthen the hand of those seeking budget increases for the purpose. It will encourage the various military departments to develop and push basic research programs, he said.

Both Reynolds and Lukes denied under questioning that the new policy statement was inspired by Russia's Sputnik triumphs, by public criticism or congressional pressure or by the departure from office of former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson. Wilson took the position that research unconnected with military needs was not a major responsibility of his department.

Drastic Revision

Issuance of the new policy statement follows by about two weeks the drastic revision of a Wilson economy order which had resulted in some cutbacks in the basic research program. Reynolds said Wednesday that all such cuts have not been restored, so far as he knows.

However, he said that the preparation of the new policy statement has been a long time project.

In a key passage, the directive says:

"Basic research presents an essential ingredient in potential military power as opposed to military power in being . . . The needs of national defense are uniquely characterized by pressing demands for new facts and knowledge very close to the frontiers of science. Without an adequate underpinning of imaginative research for the development of new equipment, materiel and weapons, a nation's defense posture will continually weaken."

Haupt Will Be Freed, Deported

. . . To Leave Today

WASHINTON (AP) — Hans Max Haupt, a naturalized American convicted of treason in 1944 for harboring his Nazi saboteur son in Chicago, will be released from prison Thursday and deported to Germany.

Atty. Gen. Rogers announced Wednesday that President Eisenhower has commuted Haupt's life sentence to the 13 years he has now served, for the sole purpose of returning him to his native land.

Haupt, naturalized in 1930, lost his citizenship by the treason conviction.

The commutation provides that if Haupt, now 63, ever again sets foot on American soil, the presidential clemency will be automatically revoked and he will be returned to prison for completion of his term.

Haupt's son, Herbert, was one of eight Nazi saboteurs apprehended in this country after being put ashore by German submarines off the east coast during World War II.

6 Executed

Six of the saboteurs, including Herbert Haupt, were electrocuted in 1942 after being convicted by a military commission sitting in Washington. The two others were given long sentences which were later commuted so that they could be returned to Germany.

In the Haupt case, the government charged that Herbert, after his landing on the coast of Florida, went directly to Chicago and contacted his father. The latter, according to the government, harbored Herbert and also purchased an automobile which the son proposed to use in carrying out his sabotage assignments in this country.

The elder Haupt has been serving his life sentence in the Federal Reformatory at Danbury, Conn. Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing, said he will be taken directly from Danbury to New York for Thursday's deportation by plane. Swing said travel documents had been obtained for Haupt from the West German government, assuring his entry into Germany.

14 SABREJETS MAKE FIVE-HOUR HOP TO HAWAII

HONOLULU (AP)—Fourteen F100C Sabrejets landed at Hickam Air Force base after a five-hour flight from California as part of the tactical Air Command's operation "Mobile Zebra."

The planes, led by Brig. Gen. Avelin P. Tacon Jr., Shreveport, La., averaged 530 miles per hour on the flight from George Air Force Base, Victorville, Calif. Tacon said the 2,400-mile flight was "routine . . . with solid cloud covering all the way.

"We never saw the ocean on the long, overwater flight," he said.

BRITISH PRINCE CHARLES TO BE NINE THURSDAY

LONDON (AP)—Prince Charles—a little boy with a big future—will celebrate a birthday away from home for the first time Thursday.

His Royal Highness Prince Charles Philip Arthur George, Duke of Cornwall and heir to the British throne, will have his party at Cheam School where he is a freshman.

Charles—first heir to the throne to start his education outside Buckingham Palace at such an early age—will be nine.

"He will celebrate it just as any other boy at a British school celebrates it," said a palace official. "That is to say he will invite a few chums to his table at tea time."

To an American schoolboy in blue jeans this may not sound very exciting. But to a British boarding school boy it's quite a binge.

Asian Town Changes Name To Stalin Village

MOSCOW (AP)—Here's a political note from Soviet central Asia:

The newspaper Turkmen Iskra (Spark) reaching Moscow Wednesday reported the Turkmenistan village of Voroshilov officially changed its name to "Stalin Village."

This change reflects the views of Communist Boss Nikita Khrushchev. He has spoken out against naming places after living persons, and Marshal Klementi Voroshilov is still around as chairman of the Supreme Soviet Presidium. It also reflects a recent tendency on Khrushchev's part to permit some rehabilitation of Stalin's memory.

Dulles: 'Some Small Marginal Freedoms' May Go

WASHINTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Wednesday the American people "may have to give up some small marginal freedoms" to cope with Soviet world pressures.

He did not say what freedoms might have to be relinquished, but indicated they were connected with forming an international front against hostile Communism and making financial sacrifices to keep the West strong.

"But the essential thing is whether we can retain the great bulk of our freedoms and at the same time beat back this great monolithic structure," Dulles said.

"I have no doubt it can be done, and with results that will spread freedom across the world."

He spoke to a group of businessmen organized into a reserve for government service in a national emergency.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who preceded him, told the executives that in federal budget making this year the emphasis is on "less butter and more guns."

Dulles said that while foreign aid is not too popular in this country it is "absolutely essential to hold together the free world."

Failure to maintain the foreign aid program, he asserted, "would involve the 'giveaway' of large parts of the free world and would leave the United States encircled to a point of strangulation."

The American people must accept certain conditions, he said, to overcome the great volume of concentrated effort being made under the Soviet dictatorship.

He specified two conditions—first, "a greater degree of interdependence among the free nations," and second, individual acceptance of action within the United States to demonstrate that freedom is worth while.

In the latter connection he referred to emphasis on morality, religion and education, without spelling out exactly what he meant. Dulles spoke extemoraneously. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor reported to the businessmen earlier that the Army is making "encouraging progress" in the development of a weapon capable of knocking down Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Services Friday For Mrs. Baeschlin

Graveside services for Mrs. Georgiana H. Baeschlin, 93, of Omaha will be held 1 p.m. Friday at Wyuka Cemetery with the Rev. Raymond Alber officiating.

Mrs. Baeschlin died Tuesday in Norfolk.

She was a resident of Lincoln for many years and had lived in Aurora. For the last seven years she lived in Omaha.

Surviving are one granddaughter, Miss Georgianna Payne, of Lincoln; one grandson, George Allyn Payne, and one great-grandson, Bruce Allyn Payne, both of Houston, Tex.

Stylish, luggage-type blue and white carrying case, both sturdy and attractive.
21 cams give thousands of decorative stitches without touching any controls.
Twin needles make multi-colored decorative stitching fast—easy to do.

Stock Issues Close Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved uncertainly Wednesday on moderate volume with prices of leading issues mixed. Some aircrafts and selected stocks rose.

The overall statistics were a bit on the downside and The Associated Press average of rail stocks hit a new 1957 low for the second straight day.

Key stocks showed gains running from fractions to around 2 points. Losses were kept within range of a point or so.

The market was lower at the start. Aircrafts perked-up after Commerce Secretary Weeks speaking in Washington called for a step-up in military and foreign aid spending and a cutting of civilian programs.

The rise of the aircrafts had little momentum, however, there was considerable see-sawing. By the close this group too had a rather spotty look.

A variety of reports about events in the missile field had a tendency to help some of these stocks but there was no unanimous rise.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 30 cents to $153.30 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails down 80 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1155 issues traded losers totaled 552 and gainers 337. There were 129 new lows for the year and no new highs.

Volume totaled 2,120,000 shares compared with 2,050,000 Tuesday.

Among the 15 most active stocks seven rose six fell and two were unchanged.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were generally lower. Volume was 510,000 shares compared with 600,000 Tuesday.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK (AP)—U. S. government bonds improved with strength evident in long range issues Wednesday but corporates were down on expanded volume.

Industrials dropped sharply in the corporate list, followed by rails and utilities. Investment quality issues closed steady while foreign dollar liens were narrowly mixed. Rails settled to a new low for the year on The Associated Press index of 60 representative bonds, a convenient yardstick of market movements.

Corporate trading volume increased to $4,960,000 par value on the big board from $4,450,000 Tuesday.

Council Takes New Action On Sewage Plant

Lincoln Star Special

BEATRICE, Neb. — The City Council made a long step toward bringing about construction of a sewage disposal plant. The council voted 6-2 to go ahead with advertising for bids, then instructed City Attorney Mrs. Anne Carstens to proceed with condemnation proceedings to obtain land for the site.

Councilmen Leslie Warren and Russell Arthur voted against going ahead, indicating they preferred waiting until enough money is collected from the sewer use fee to pay for the plant, rather than to pay interest on borrowed money.

Sewer Fee Aids

A sewer use fee put into effect early this year is taking in about $4,000 per month to finance the plant which is estimated to cost about $633,000. The State of Nebraska has allocated money to pay 30 per cent of the cost exclusive of site.

The city will begin condemnation action to obtain a 19-acre tract owned by Robert Tyser at the southeast edge of Beatrice adjacent to the Blue River and Chautauqua Park. During discussion, Tyser indicated he wanted about $2,000 per acre for the farm land while the council suggested about $400 to be a fairer price per acre.

Bid Opening Set

According to George Miller, board of public works manager, bids will be opened Dec. 9 for the construction contract with construction to begin within 20 days after contract is let. Completion of plant and interconnecting sewer lines would be scheduled for 200 days later. Miller said the plant should be in operation next fall. Total cost of construction, exclusive of site, legal and engineering costs, is estimated at $581,040. The plant is to be a full treatment plant employing a vacuum filter secondary treatment section.

Watershed Meet On Mud Creek Project Called

Lincoln Star Special

BEATRICE, Neb. — Plans for the Mud Creek Watershed Project will be reviewed and completed Thursday night by farmers in the area, at a meeting at the Church of the Brethren near Holmesville at 8 p.m.

Members of the Mud Creek Watershed Association and of the Gage County Soil Conservation District will sponsor the meeting and a watershed planning party of the Soil Conservation Service will present the plans, according to Dwight Dell, chairman of the watershed group.

Mud Creek Watershed would include 38,000 acres of Gage County land southeast of Beatrice. Study of damages by flood waters shows an annual loss of about $40,000. Mud Creek drains into the Blue River near Holmesville.

The watershed plan would include soil erosion measures and detention dams to aid in controlling the flood waters.

Four Wounded

TEL AVIV (INS)—Four Israeli frontier guards were reported wounded when a land mine exploded under their vehicle near the Syrian border.

According to an Army spokesman demining operations are in progress on two Syrian minefields he said were discovered six weeks ago in a demilitarized zone inside Israel.

The spokesman said the Syrians began shooting when the mine exploded.

'War With Reds Won Or Lost By Ideas, Not Arms'

DENVER (INS)—The president of Kansas State College said Wednesday the U.S. war with Communism will be won or lost in the realm of ideas, not weapons technology or diplomotic tricks.

President James A. McCain, in Denver for an education meeting, said the Sputniks are far more important for illumination of Russian intellectural achievement than for military significance.

McCain, who recently toured Europe on on Eisenhower exchange fellowship declared:

"The erroneous assumption that a substantial majority of Europeans are permanently on our side could prove fatal to our cause . . ."

Late Harvesting Delays Results Of Corn Program

Results of the annual Better Corn—More Profits program in Nebraska will be later than usual this year due to the high moisture content of the crop, according to Clinton Hoover, extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska.

The deadline for picking the 100-ear corn samples from fields in 1957 was Nov. 12. However, it will be some time before samples will be dry enough to shell, Hoover said.

The top corn produced in the state will not be determined until all entries have been shelled. More than 500 entries have been received so far, which promises to exceed the 1956 total of 588.

Better Than Last Year

BONN (AP)—West German winners report their wines for this year will be of "good average" quality, better than last year. Estimates place production at double and amount of 1956, or a total of 833 million gallons.
